THE SACK . . . ... FARM STYLE

Graceful (?) sack style won quick approval from a large audience at Saanichton Fall Fair's Fashion Show Monday. Model is Mrs. W. M. Penmon, a member of the "Not So Old Model Club," of James Island. The models demonstrated old and new dresses. Some of the styles dated back to 1868. It was fair's funniest show.

TOPS, SAY JUDGES

Record 14,000 Throng to Fair

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A record crowd of 14,000 from all parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland turned out for the colorful 90th annual fair of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society over the Labor Day weekend.

It was the largest crowd in the history of the oldest fair in western Canada, topping last year's attendance by 3,000.

And in the opinion of judges and B.C. government agricultural officials, it was one of the best fairs in its class held so far in the province.

Unlike other exhibitions, the Saanichton Fair, founded in 1868, retained some of its old-time atmosphere.

It featured a record number of entries—a total of 2,715.

Some idea of the extent of these entries is shown in these figures: sheep 140, swine 19, goats 89, poultry 83, geese eight, pigeons eight, bantams 36, budgies 150, cattle 320, horses 144, rabbits 160, vegetables 330, fruits 20, grains and grasses 34, jams 196.

The highland events alone had 40 entries, and household arts, ladies' work and handicrafts over 300 entries.

BEST IN B.C.

The fair was opened Monday by Agriculture Minister Newton P. Steacy.

"Your horticultural and honey exhibits are the best in the province," he told a large and interested audience. "Your rabbit show is one of the best I've seen."

Sharing the grandstand with Mr. Steacy was 80-year-old George T. Michell, a veteran member of the fair committee.

Calf competitions and English horse show and cattle exhibitions were the main features of the day, while inside the Saanichton Hall all manner of produce exhibits, ranging from pumpkins to cakes, were on display.

For all events there were some 35 judges.

Every event ranging from goat to cattle judging competitions was well attended.

The English and western-style riding competitions attracted hundreds.

Among the more popular shows were the budgie and rabbit exhibits.

The Angus steers of Woodwyn Farm, Saanichton, which included a grand champion weighing well over a ton, also attracted a good deal of attention.

In the Agricultural Hall the horticultural exhibits and domestic arts were on display. The hall was crowded to capacity throughout the two-day fair.

Winners included Mrs. J. C. Erickson of Deep Cove, who was awarded the Michell-Turgoose Cup for obtaining the highest number of points in the various classes. It is the fifth

Frigate Rescues Trawler After Arrest by Iceland

British Vessel Recaptures Ship In Fish Dispute

LONDON (Reuters)—A British warship rescued a trawler that had been arrested today by Icelandic coast-guardsmen for infringing on Iceland's new 12-mile territorial waters limit.

The crew of the frigate HMS Eastbourne removed a boarding party that had taken control of the trawler Northern Foam, skippered by J. Crockwell, a 39-year-old Newfoundland.

The Royal Navy said no force was used in negotiating the removal of the coast guard boarding party.

A Reuters correspondent on HMS Eastbourne said the Northern Foam had been seized by two Icelandic gunboats and taken over by a boarding party.

The Eastbourne intercepted and took charge of the trawler as the gunboats were escorting her to port.

USED 14 MEN

Fourteen Royal Navy officers and ratings regained control of the trawler without resistance.

One of the gunboats, the Thor, refused to take back its boarding party. The men were brought aboard the warship, the correspondent radioed. Commodore Barry Anderson said he will return them to Iceland as soon as possible.

A statement issued in Reykjavik by Iceland's coast guard said its boarding party was met by trawlermen armed with cudgels.

Capt. Crockwell came to Britain during the war from the fishing village of Bay Bulls near St. John's. His home port now is Grimby. He has a wife and three children.

PROTESTS TO LONDON

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Gudmundur Gudmundsson said Monday Iceland had protested to London the "use of force by the British navy" to prevent an Icelandic gunboat from arresting a British trawler.

Gudmundsson said in a broadcast he has ordered Iceland's ambassador in Paris to report the incident to NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak.

Private talks arranged by Spaak broke down in Paris

19 Feared Dead As U.S. Transport Crashes in Ocean

GUAM (AP)—A U.S. Military Air Transport Service plane with 19 aboard crashed in the Pacific Ocean early today and an air-sea search team could find no survivors.

Debris and three bodies were picked up 30 miles west of Guam.

The C-124 plane from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., was on a flight to the Philippines. It had a crew of seven and carried cargo and 12 passengers.

Air force officers estimated the plane crashed five minutes after leaving Guam on the last leg of its trip.

The search was continued after a U.S. Navy ship picked up two bodies and an air force helicopter found one.

Sommers Trial Faces Month's Adjournment

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial today was suddenly adjourned to Thursday because of the illness of a juror and it was suggested the hearing may have to be further adjourned from a month to six weeks.

Dr. Stanley Ernest Britten testified that Mrs. Shirley Izon, one of three women members of the jury, was ill and unable to appear.

He told Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson that his preliminary diagnosis was that Mrs. Izon had jaundice. He said that if his diagnosis was correct, Mrs. Izon would be absent a month to six weeks.

Mr. Justice Wilson instructed Dr. Britten to have a consultation with the leading authority on jaundice and to report back to the court Thursday morning.

The illness of Mrs. Izon interrupted the defence as it was nearing completion. Angelo Branca, Vancouver criminal lawyer who represents former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, was scheduled to begin his address to the jury today.

One authority said that if Mrs. Izon's illness is lengthy, the case could proceed with 11 jurors, but only if both sides agree.

The trial already is the longest in B.C. criminal annals history. It began May 1 and has proceeded for 64 days with numerous adjournments, some of them because of illness.

IN LONDON:

Race Rioting Erupts

Mob of Teenagers
Battles Negroes

LONDON (AP)—Race rioters rampaged through London's Notting Hill district Monday night for the third successive night. It was early morning before police with big Alsatian dogs cleared the streets of the mob of more than 2,000 whites, most of them teenagers.

The rioters smashed windows of Negro homes. The embattled residents retaliated by hurling bottles from their roofs. One home-made gasoline bomb also was thrown down but the fire was put out quickly.

One white man was stabbed in the shoulder. Scores of other persons had minor injuries. Police arrested 34 persons, bringing to 57 the total arrested in London since racial disturbances broke out again Saturday night.

CAFE WRECKED

In the neighborhood Paddington district, gangs of white youths wrecked a cafe frequented by Negroes.

Racial friction between native-born white and immigrants from the West Indies and other areas of the Commonwealth flamed into violence in the industrial city of Nottingham slightly more than a week ago, and a clash there was quickly repeated in Notting Hill.

The battling was resumed in Notting Hill Saturday night when, after the pubs closed, some 200 whites and non-whites clashed with knives and broken bottles. More than 500 whites roamed the district Monday night, attacking Negro residents and throwing rocks and bottles at their windows.

Nottingham also had weekend race violence. There, a mob of 1,000 whites moved on the city's Negro quarter Sunday night but police patrols drove them off. Five of the rioters were sentenced Monday to three months in prison and 19 were fined.

SPECIAL REPORT

Home Secretary Richard A. Butler was reported satisfied that police could handle the situation. But he ordered a special report on the riots.

Condemnation of the race rioters mounted. George Rogers, Notting Hill's Labor member of Parliament, toured the district in a loudspeaker truck, appealing for common sense, decency and tolerance in this matter of race relations. The Labor party chairman Tom Driberg, deplored the race violence as "a blot on the conscience of Britain."

A social worker in Notting Hill said the rampaging teenagers "are just looking for excitement." A major element in the rioting crowds have been "Teddy boys," foppishly dressed juvenile delinquents.

PRIVATE SCHOOL BURNED OUT

Blackened ruins of Southlands Private School in Langford are all that remains today following blaze of undetermined origin late Sunday and early Monday which ate through two-storey converted army dwelling. Fire men fought blaze without adequate water supply in high wind for more than four hours. Between 30 and 40 pupils were slated to start studies there next week but classrooms were gutted. (See story, Page 13).—(Times Photo.)

HOUSE SESSION OVER FRIDAY?

OTTAWA (UPI)—There is a "gentleman's agreement" among all three Commons parties to wind up the present session of parliament by Friday night, it was learned today.

Formal prorogation of the lengthy five-month session will take place either Friday or Saturday morning, authoritative sources said.

RAIN EASES FIRE HAZARD IN FORESTS

Vancouver Island loggers and hunters were given free rein in the woods today with lifting of bans imposed August 20 due to high forest fire hazard.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston at noon announced lifting of the general forest closure which has halted industry and recreation in the woodlands of Vancouver Island for the past two weeks.

Recreation and Conservation Minister E. C. Westwood simultaneously announced lifting of restrictions which had already cut into the grouse season and threatened to cancel portions of the deer hunting season.

Some portions of the B.C. interior are still restricted to hunters.

In those portions of the province newly-reopened, there is possibility of further closure if the fire hazard again becomes severe.

RAIN FORECAST

But Victoria weatherman William Mackie at noon could see no early resumption of the dry weather which has been current on the west coast this summer. The unsettled pattern will continue. Victoria can expect rain again Wednesday night.

Although the chill, wet weather helped keep the count down in most parts of the country, a fierce storm Sunday in southern Ontario contributed to at least six deaths.

Big Sea Battle Costly to Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists claimed their warships early today sank 11 Communist torpedo boats that were trying to break up a convoy to embattled Quemoy Island. It was the biggest naval action reported in the 11 days since the Communists stepped up their attack on the Nationalist-held offshore island.

Earlier, the Nationalists announced their artillery on Quemoy, in firing throughout Sunday night, sank three Communist gunboats and eight motorized junks in a flotilla near Amoy, the Communist island port blockaded by the Nationalist island.

SHIP TURNS BACK

Despite the reported naval success, the torpedo boat attack forced the Nationalist troop carrier to return to the Pescadore Islands without unloading 370 troops destined for Quemoy. Only 30 of the reinforcements made it ashore.

While the naval engagement raged, Red shore batteries pounded Quemoy with renewed fury. The Communists fired 857 shells in 1½ hours and also dumped a 101-shell barrage on tiny Tatan Islet 2½ miles south of Amoy.

Khrushchev Calls For A-Weapon Ban

(See also Page 9)

GENEVA (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev called Monday for an agreement banning atomic weapons so that the whole power of the atomic industry could be placed at the service of peace and progress.

In a message to the United Nations atoms-for-peace conference here, he said the conference opened up wide possibilities for the exchange of the latest knowledge and experience in the field of atomic science and technology.

Canada Seeks New Conference On Sea Rights

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said today Canada would "take the initiative if necessary" for the calling of another law of the sea conference to settle the British-Icelandic and other disputes over the 12-mile fishing limit.

Canada's proposal for exclusive rights out to 12 miles was successfully backed by the larger nations at the April law of the sea conference at Geneva. Canada at that time had the support of many of the smaller nations.

The prime minister called the dispute between Iceland and Britain a "world-wide problem." He noted that the dispute would probably be brought before the United Nations general assembly later this month. The law of the sea conference is sponsored by the U.N.

OSLO (AP)—The Norwegian Fishermen's Association demanded Monday that Norway announce its intention to establish a 12-mile fishing limit from her shores. Norway now has a four-mile limit.

U.K. EXPLODES NUCLEAR BOMB OVER PACIFIC

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today successfully detonated a nuclear device high over the Pacific Ocean, the government announced tonight.

The announcement, issued by the ministry of supply, said the device successfully produced a high-yield explosion. The blast took place at a high altitude over the central Pacific area.

Seven Killed As Big Plane Hits Homes

LONDON (CP)—A flaming freight plane with three men aboard plunged out of the morning mist at breakfast time today and crashed with a sudden explosion on a row of quiet suburban homes.

Seven persons were killed. Four houses in Kelvin Gardens were destroyed and others were damaged.

The dead included the crew of three aboard the chartered freighter, a woman in one of the houses and her month-old son, and two children in another house.

The twin-engine Viking, operated by Independent Air travel, had just taken off from London Airport, three miles away. It was bound for Nice and Tel Aviv with cargo.

"The crash was terrible," said stenographer Margaret Dudhan who was dressing in her bedroom across the street. "The plane was a mass of flames. The tail part bounced over and landed on our back-lawn."

Retired Farmer Climbs B.C. Peak

CALGARY (CP)—Moving at a rate better than one mile an hour, a retired Northwood, Iowa, farmer scaled Mount Stephen in British Columbia Saturday. It was learned today. This was his seventh time "over the top."

Airmen Killed, Two Badly Hurt In Island Highway Auto Smash

THIS WORLD OF OURS People and Things

BEDFORD, Eng.—A nudist colony, presumably slim pickings for a pickpocket, turned out otherwise here Monday.

Stockholm visitor John Björklund, attending the international nudists camp here, told police £16 ($44.80) had been lifted from his trousers pocket. He left his pants hanging in a tent.

WHITEHORSE, Y.T.—Charlie Fox leaves today by plane for Vancouver after a "Get Rid of Charlie" fund was oversubscribed in two days.

The fund was organized after Mr. Fox, known as Silent Charlie, almost won the gold rush jubilee beard-growing competition. Most citizens apparently thought he should have won but contest judges gave the prize—a round trip plane ticket to Vancouver—to another contestant.

Friday after Iceland rejected a proposal to share the fish catch and extend territorial waters only six miles to seaward from the previous four.

Gudmundsson said "It has always been and still is the hope of all good Icelanders that this question can be happily solved without spoiling our nation's friendship with neighboring states."

Feeling ran high among the 162,000 citizens of this island. An armed guard was posted at the home of British Ambassador Andrew Gilchrist as a precaution.

TRADITIONAL RIGHT

British fishermen have been casting their nets off Iceland for decades and say it is a traditional right. They say Iceland has no legal right to extend its territorial boundary beyond the four miles it claimed until last Sunday midnight.

Iceland contends the wider zone is necessary both to protect the fish-spawning grounds and to preserve a large enough share of the catch for Icelandic fishermen, the economic backbone of the island.

The Icelandic coast guard said its gunboat "or tried to arrest a British trawler Monday but the British frigate, Palisade, with guns trained, sailed between them.

Evening Discussion Groups Open New Field for College

By JOHN MIKA

Victoria College ventures into a new field of adult education this fall, borrowing a technique that produced the greatest philosophers of ancient Greece.

Six study-discussion programs in the liberal arts designed for "living room learning" were announced today by officials of the college's evening division.

The new programs were announced along with the regular credit and non-credit courses offered by the evening division each year.

"To join you do not need a college background... all you need is an enquiring mind and a desire to learn, and a willingness to share your thinking with other people," the brochure says of the discussion programs.

The discussion groups will be held in private homes, at the college, and at the Art Gallery.

The six subjects of enquiry will be: looking at modern painting; world politics; Canada and world affairs; ways of mankind; and great religions of the world.

For one course will be $12 or $18 for two members of the same family. Meetings will be held once a week in the evening, lasting two hours. The programs vary from 10 to 12 meetings beginning in October.

EXPERIMENT SUCCESS

"Last year we offered just one program, Ways of Mankind, as an experiment," said Prof. Robert Wallace, evening division director. "It went extremely well. In fact, we had so many enrolled that we had to break it up into two groups."

The programs are available through a grant from the Ford Foundation to the University of B.C.

There are no lectures. Each meeting will be a round-table discussion, kept on the track by a group leader. Each participant will give his own views and deductions. There will be no pat answers to memorize but ideas to develop.

This is the technique developed by Socrates more than 2,350 years ago in ancient Athens.

SPECIAL READINGS

The only modern innovation added is a specially prepared set of readings, dramatic recordings and motion pictures to stimulate discussion.

The readings do not present a single point of view. Some you will agree with, and others you will not; but all provide the necessary background for informed and intelligent discussion," the brochure stresses.

Further information is available from the college's evening division, but Prof. Wallace urges those interested to make inquiries quickly because each group is limited to 25 members.

The new program will be fully explained by Dr. John Friesen, UBC extension department director, at a "coffee party" scheduled for 8 p.m., Sept. 19, when he speaks on "The Liberal Arts in Adult Education" at the college.

Admission is free to all interested persons.

Also announced today was the nine-subject general course offered each year by the college's evening division.

Lecture courses offered are: Ten Nights in the Archives, special centennial course on Victoria and B.C. history; The Seeing Eye, for appreciation and understanding of art; Victoria College Film Club; Conversational French; Conversational Spanish; and Fundamentals of Russian.

Also included are courses on: Cruising with Safety, relating to seamanship and small boat handling; Workshop in More Effective Reading, and Control and Management of Retail and Professional Credit.

Fees range from $8 to $30. Several courses begin Sept. 23, the remainder in October.

University credit courses offered in evening classes include economics, education, English, geography, German, history, home economics, mathematics and psychology.

Fees are $51 for the two-weekly lectures beginning Sept. 30 and ending April 30.

A 13-week course in Personality Development beginning Sept. 24 will be offered to parents of pre-school children and persons wishing to qualify as supervisors for pre-school projects licensed by the welfare institutions board of the department of health and welfare.

Evening courses leading to a registered industrial and cost account certificate and to a certified general accountant's degree also are offered this fall.

Science Now Shrinks Piles

Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded!

Thousands of people believe that the Conservative party today is the party best able to provide a government to replace the present administration," said Mr. Finlayson.

He said the choice in the next election will be between the Conservatives and the Social Credit party. He ruled out the CCF as a possible winner.

4 America Cup Aspirants Battle

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Four yachts entered the next-to-last contest today for a chance to defend the America Cup against British challenger Sceptre.

The Columbia, Easterner, Vim and Weatherly, scheduled the second of the last three pre-race trial finals today off Newport. The cup committee must decide by Sept. 13 which of the four will represent the United States against Sceptre in a best-of-seven series beginning Sept. 20.

The final set for three trials opened Monday under sunny skies and nearly-calm seas over a windward-leeward course that totalled 24 miles, including a round trip.

Columbia, sailed by a crew under Henry Sears of Greenwich, Conn., defeated Weatherly. The winning-time was 3:51.20 compared to 3:55.23 for Arthur Knapp, Jr., of Larchmont, N.Y., skipper of the Weatherly.

On the other pairing, Vim beat Easterner, 3:56.06 to 3:59.04. Vim, a 19-year-old "veteran," is owned by Henry Matthews of Rye, N.Y., Easterner, one of the three boats built for the 1958 cup race, belongs to a syndicate led by Chandler Hovey of Boston.

The Sceptre tried her sails Monday but not in formal race. She was paced by the Gleeman, a yacht "on loan" from the New York Yacht Club for the occasion.

IN PARLIAMENT

Big Prairie Dam Project Wins Unanimous Approval

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—The $184,000,000 South Saskatchewan dam project won unanimous all-party Commons approval Monday after strenuous Liberal resistance on procedural grounds.

Opposition Leader Pearson, obviously nettled by a government supporter's claim that the Liberals were "indirectly" opposing the plan said his party objects "only to the methods used in getting it through Parliament."

He said the fact that legislators were merely asked to

Government Getting 'Blank Cheque'

Mr. Pearson said his party supports the dam-and-irrigation project—a reversal of the stand taken by the former Liberal government—but feels that the parliamentary procedure adopted meant that the government was getting a "blank cheque."

Agriculture Minister Harkness derided Mr. Pearson's criticisms, saying the procedure had often been used in the past. But the former Liberal government usually provided only a figure in spending estimates.

Under current procedure members would be allowed to debate the issue and ask questions under annual estimates to be included as work progressed.

Arguments on the dam project, which one speaker said has been under consideration off and on for 100 years, occupied morning and afternoon debate at Labor Day sitting which saw a maximum attendance of 129 members. Occasionally, fewer than 75 of the 265-seat House were in the chamber.

On the vote, the roll-call was 97 Conservatives, 27 Liberals and five CCF members.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said this was an "historic day" showing that if the people of a province are united and determined to have a certain project they will "win through."

Referring to Armand Dumas (L. Villeneuve), who gave reasons why the Liberals supported the agreement, Mr. Argue said Mr. Dumas had shown that where a regional project is of some national benefit, members from all parts of Canada generally approve.

The plan would "stabilize" feed growth over a 45,000,000-acre area and provide irrigation for 150,000 acres.

Mr. Argue, a 37-year-old Saskatchewan farmer, said federal government financial participation does not imply any "hand-out." He did not think the terms of agreement were over-generous to Saskatchewan and in later years they might be changed to provide a greater share in the project.

Of the $184,000,000, the federal government would put up about $74,000,000, including $72,000,000 for the dam and $2,000,000 for the penstocks. The province would put up $24,000,000 for the dam, $41,000,000 for power installations and $45,000,000 on irrigation works.

The exchange developed as Montreal architect Ernest Cormier, under questioning by Mr. Chevrier, maintained that the $16,200,000 printing bureau was unable, as it now stood, to accommodate a second air conditioning unit which the works department had planned to install.

Mr. Pearson then said angrily his only opposition is on constitutional grounds. The government had denied the opposition the rights of parliamentary discussion.

George McIlraith (L-Ottawa West) said the government was enacting legislation "by concealment."

A new verbal battle broke out in the House "public accounts committee Monday and the exchange between two members grew so heated that a third suggested they ought to settle their differences "outside."

Hydro Speedsters Thrill Nanaimo Crowd

NANAIMO — A crowd estimated at well over 2,000 lined the banks of Westwood Lake Monday for the second annual Kinsmen regatta.

Over 50 Canadian hydro racing names, many of them record or former record holders, competed in the heats and eight event final.

The regatta, although sanctioned by the racing body, was not recognized as far as records course. The official course is 1 1/4 miles.

Four flips added to the thrills as rain cut visibility.

One flip, in a warm-up prior to the start of the races, saw Perks Stacey, Nanaimo, do a half gainer as he left the hydro.

Ken Fincham, Vancouver, flipped in his B hydro; Gordon Blake of Port Alberni, in a D hydro, and Stan Villman flipped in his C hydro. All escaped injury.

Joe Van Bergen, Alberni, who Sunday broke the Sprout Lake course with a 69.364 miles per hour spin, for a new Canadian record, finished second in the 136 class.

The "J" class, boys under 14, went to Vancouver boats—Roy Fingham, Bob Hildebrand and Dave McEwen in that order.

By the Back Door

IN BILL C-51, AN AMENDMENT to the Customs Act, the Diefenbaker Government has forged a sharp weapon against imports of foreign goods.

This legislation goes further than any in our history to revoke the tariff-making power of Parliament and transfer it to the Cabinet. As the tariff is nothing but a tax, the Cabinet will levy, over a wide field, taxes that should never be levied by any authority but Parliament.

These profound economic and constitutional changes are contained in what is ostensibly no more than a new "anti-dumping" formula.

Few Canadians, and no political party, are willing to let foreign nations dump goods in our market—that is, to sell them more cheaply than they are sold at home. But how is dumping to be defined? That has always been the key question and the Government has answered it with a new, open-ended definition.

Ever since the Liberal Party returned to power in 1935, dumping has been defined by Canadian law as the sale of foreign goods below their "fair-market value" in the country of production.

It is easy, of course, to determine that value. If, for example, an article is manufactured, advertised and sold in the United States for $1, and is offered here for 75 cents, this obviously constitutes dumping, and special duties are then levied to protect the Canadian manufacturer from unfair competition.

These safeguards—well known to all importers in advance and based on ascertainable figures—do not satisfy the Diefenbaker Government. It is taking power to fix dumping duties virtually as it pleases, without ever consulting Parliament. Henceforth, in a wide variety of circumstances, the Government will base dumping duties on what is called the cost of production, plus a reasonable profit.

That is to say, the Government will estimate the cost of producing an article in a foreign country, it will add an arbitrary estimate of reasonable profit to the manufacturer and, on the resulting total, will levy customs duties.

Since no Canadian Government can possibly know the individual cost of manufacturing thousands of articles in foreign countries, nor the profit reasonably earned on them, dumping becomes what the Government chooses to say it is at any moment.

Apart from the transfer of the tax-making power from the legislature to the executive—the power on which our whole parliamentary system has long been built—the new statute will have three main effects.

First, no importer will know in advance what duties he must pay on his imports. He will know what he paid for these goods but he cannot foresee what valuation the customs officials will place on them.

The duties thus levied may vary from one article to another, depending upon the Cabinet's daily orders in council and the discretion of officials. While these orders may be appealed to the courts, that appeal will be too costly, cumbersome and slow to be of any real use to the importer. Thus imports of many things will be discouraged, which is exactly the Government's intention.

Secondly, it seems quite clear that the omnibus anti-dumping formula is aimed specifically at the present imports of British wools.

Mr. Fleming said in his budget speech that the recent increase in statutory duties against these imports was quite insufficient to protect the Canadian textile industry as the Government wishes it to be protected. The necessary protection, Mr. Fleming promised, would be provided by anti-dumping duties. That promise is now being fulfilled.

To understand the Government's purpose here it is necessary to penetrate the complexities of the Customs Act.

As it existed until now, the Government always had the power to levy anti-dumping duties on cost of production, plus profit, where the fair-market value in a foreign country could not be determined, and where a Canadian industry was being gravely damaged.

Actually, the Liberal Government used this power only once, to provide brief protection for the strawberry industry in 1957. But British goods were always specifically exempted by law from such emergency imports. Now they are specifically included.

These arrangements would not have been so clearly spelled out in the new statute if the Government did not intend to use them in restricting British imports.

Thirdly, the present formula is a total denial of the letter and the spirit of the Geneva trade agreements, under which more than 90 per cent of the world's trade is conducted and from which Canada has benefited perhaps more than any other nation. The anger and retaliation of our customers at this breach of contract (though it may be excused on very narrow, legalistic grounds) can be confidently anticipated.

In short, the Government is moving through the back door of a virtually unlimited anti-dumping system, applied at the Cabinet's pleasure, toward the old, traditional protectionist policies of the Conservative Party.

If the Government believes in those policies, as it has every right to do, it would be wiser, and more honest, to enforce them openly so that the Canadian importer—and the consumer who pays the bill—would know where they stand.

Grain Will Be Needed

JUST BECAUSE WE HAVE A large grain surplus at the moment and the United States is dumping its farmstuffs in large quantities, there is no reason, says the big Searle Grain Company of Winnipeg, to reduce our prairie crops. The experts of this company, who know their business, believe that the world will need and buy all the wheat we can produce a little later on.

"Obviously," they say, "despite the post-war tendency of many European countries to encourage wheat production, through subsidization or by other means, there has been a growing over-all world demand for wheat. Populations are increasing, economic conditions and standards of living are improving, new tastes for wheat and wheat products are being developed and some new markets are being opened up."

"This, then, surely is no time for Canada to be thinking in terms of still smaller wheat acreages or of a further decrease in wheat production. Year in and year out, western Canada raises the highest quality of wheat in the world and it also has the very distinct advantage of low-cost production. As world trade expands, therefore, it seems reasonable to expect that our wheat will be required in increasing quantities, particularly in those eastern countries which are improving their standards of living and are gradually turning to a wheat-bread diet."

Canada's problem, of course, is to keep the wheat surplus manageable until the new markets appear to cultivate those markets by active salesmanship wherever possible, above all to retain that "very distinct advantage" of relatively low production costs—costs that will certainly rise if the farmer must pay more for manufactured goods, their price raised by the tariff or by inflation.

The Curious Germans

THE MYSTERY OF THE GERMAN character, that strange combination of constructive genius and destructive aggression, is deepened by the latest news from Bonn. West Germany has begun a systematic prosecution of its own war criminals who were sentenced to brief terms, overlooked or pardoned by the Allies after the last war.

In Bavaria the chief government prosecutor has been dismissed for permitting the escape of Dr. Hans Eisele, a physician who was accused of war atrocities and escaped to Egypt, whence he has been extradited.

At Ulm ten former Gestapo and Elite Guard officers are being tried for the wartime murder of 5,000 Jews in Lithuania seventeen years ago. Within a few weeks the German courts will consider the murder of 11,000 prisoners in the notorious Sachsenhausen prison camp. Other prosecutions are pending.

After the first World War Germany admitted no guilt and, within fifteen years, began to prepare for the second. That evidently is not the attitude of the Adenauer Government. Where the Allies abandoned their attempt to find all war criminals, the Government, headed by a man who was once Hitler's prisoner, is relentlessly pursuing these men and admits no statute of limitations on their crimes.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Back to the Slime

DURING the worst of the long coastal heat and drought a friend of mine was driving down the main highway of Vancouver Island. A mile or so from a dangerous forest fire, started by a careless smoker, my friend watched the driver, in a car ahead of him, casually toss a burning cigarette butt upon the road. Unfortunately, in the weekend traffic jam, he could not get the number of that car.

A day or two later, another friend of mine saw exactly the same incident at exactly the same place. In both cases the burning cigarette did no damage, dying out on the pavement, but we are not always that lucky.

THERE must be hundreds of drivers, all over Canada, who ignore all warnings, care nothing for the countryside, and constantly endanger it. If, as a wise man once said, we are to conceive the dimensions of human folly, we must think about the vast, illimitable sweep of outer space, the size of the universe itself.

But I am developing and shall shortly copyright a new theory to explain these wonders. It is based on a book of anthropology which I have been reading all summer. My theory is the first to explain, in scientific terms, the twin phenomena of the cigarette thrower and the rubbish dumper, the man who burns the forest and the man who litters the roadside.

According to my anthropologist, some unimaginable creature, a kind of fish, was the first living organism to come ashore out of the primordial seas in the world's early days.

Somewhat this fish, driven ashore by its enemies, managed to walk a few yards or its fins to another, safer pool of water from which it and its offspring continued to walk, with improved organs until, aeon after aeon, it walked upright on two legs and finally rode, in an automobile, smoking a cigarette or tossing garbage upon the roadside.

THAT was evolution. The creature finally emerging in man, lord of the universe, has been constantly rising and improving. Now he is ready at last to carry his genius and matchless civilization to other—less fortunate planets where there are no men, no automobiles, no cigarettes and no garbage.

Meanwhile, however, a reverse movement, quite unnoticed by the anthropologists, has been getting quietly under way. Some branches of the human species have been devolving. Some men are moving, generation by generation, back to the slime.

The cigarette thrower and dumper may be considered by the thoughtful observer as merely careless persons. Oh, no, they are something much more significant and important than that. They represent the first clear proof of my theory that, after several billion years of evolution, devolution has definitely begun.

A part of the human creaturehood, having achieved humanity only a moment ago in the time-scale of the planet, has rebelled against its progress and is seeking to recapture its old, sub-human status. It yearns for the good old central swamp.

In my imagination I can see that pathetic fish-like thing stumbling ashore on its stumpy fins, struggling a few yards, collapsing for lack of lungs, unable to breathe the unaccustomed air yet miraculously surviving—the unlikely ancestor of all men.

AND I can now see, on any Canadian highway, the first ancestors of another species beginning to move backward over the same route, to the original home of life. The movement today, however, is more rapid than the movements of that bold pioneer fish. Our modern devolutionary process moves at sixty miles an hour or more in an automobile.

The cigarette butt—a piece of evidence which every anthropologist should note as carefully as he dissects the organs of the lower animals—is tossed from a speeding car. The dumper of rubbish drives rapidly by night into the countryside and, selecting by sure instinct the most attractive scenic view, deposits his cargo where it will do the most damage, then flits away.

Here, in reverse, you can observe the whole long process of human life. The age of the brainless, predatory reptile, the ravaging mastodon, the clumsy diplocod and flying monster has begun again.

WITH modern techniques of communication devolution should be incomparably faster than evolution. The cigarette thrower and the dumper can quickly teach their methods and inherited characteristics to the young. It takes only a few moments to teach a child how to light a forest fire and one night's study will show him how to dump rubbish. Only a few generations at most will be required to develop the confirmed, hereditary and fixed thrower and dumper, two new species now well on their way back to the slime.

As Our Readers See It

Outdoor Sports

The provincial government is to be commended upon its wise, sane protection of the woods and forests in 1938, and its present closure to hunters. Hunting in near-populated areas, has become for the most part, a ludicrous "strutting" behavior of the male when certain dates permitted him to strut in a red hat with gun in hand and the excuse to use it, if only on the "no trespassing" signs which are riddled by his antics and have obviously satisfied his hunger for the sound of a gun.

Actually, hunting is proof of the man. Its lure is exciting, attractive and healthy. The responsible hunter is imbued with a high code of ethics and a ripple of pleasurable expectation greets his return from adventure, as he produces his bag or tells his tale.

The pseudo predators in red cap, callow and sheepish, with guns held incompetently, are a distressing sight. Why on earth they don't go off on a jolly good picnic and take shots at vigorous sport to enhance their appearance is a mystery. Surely there's a "deer" amongst them or even a goody duck?

KATHLEEN M. WORTHINGTON-LAKE, 851 Maddison Street.

Wild Assertions

Your frequent correspondent, Mr. H. V. O'Reilly, has once more expressed his opinions. His attitude and arguments are, however, impossible to understand or justify.

The assassination of Archduke Ferdinand served only as the spark in the highly inflammable mixture, and the statement that First World War was caused by it is unsupported in history. The rest of his letter is a denunciation of the wickedness of war and the stupidity of man.

But Mr. O'Reilly, a confessed atheist, does not convince as a fervid minor prophet. If Nature is irrational and the Moral Law non-existent, (and both views are inherent in atheism), what criteria does Mr. O'Reilly use to condemn men's sins?

In his final paragraph Mr. O'Reilly, blames the present situation on Christianity, and here his woeful ignorance of Christ is disclosed. Before generalizing further, Mr. O'Reilly should attempt to study honestly the religion of which he apparently knows so little, and which he yet attacks so often. Wild assertions never replace logic, and reasoning does not consist merely of breathing deeply and shouting hard.

Inflation or Extortion?

For a considerable time I have been buying at a well-known store a 10-oz. tin of English fruit drops for 39 cents and two cents tax. A few days ago I purchased a tin and was charged 45 cents and two cents tax. On questioning the sales clerk he said the difference in price was due to the fact that the tin was now a "premium" article.

At another large store today the self-same article was priced at 49 cents and I presume two cents tax. I was not a buyer.

It will be interesting to see if the price comes down after the tourist season is over.

'Open Letter to Longshoremen'

"Would you please let me know why you are on strike?"

Pensioners who are considered too old to work, get $55 per month to live on and have to find food, clothing and shelter with it, and be thankful, whilst you able-bodied men are making approximately that in two days and are asking still more.

Could it possibly be that your motive is anxiety to contribute the extra that you ask for, to a general fund to be divided solely amongst those pensioners who have only $55 per month to try and exist on?

A Night at the Club

In reply to the article by Mr. B. A. Tobin in The Times Aug. 27, and the memories of the night that Captain Vancouver leaned sideways towards the Pacific Ocean, also the night that the Lusitania was sunk.

I was on board a submarine in the engine room and heading towards Cape Flattery. Our wireless operator picked up the news that the Lusitania was sunk by a German sub in the Irish Sea on her way to Liverpool, all on board lost including women and children. Naturally we were upset over this sad affair.

Mr. Tobin refers to those who raided the German club in the Kaiserhof Hotel as wild animals. The reason for our raid on the German club was this:

Members of the German club put on a wild celebration after every great victory of the German army that had walked rough-shod through France and had, as it looked, almost won the war.

Still, Britain had not lost the last battle. Their retreat from Mons was marvelous. We old sailors of the Royal Navy were really proud of the good showing our little army had made.

There were quite a few old British sailors in Victoria and Esquimalt. They had come around Cape Horn to the Pacific and served at Esquimalt. They liked Esquimalt; some of them took their discharge here.

The behaviour of the Germans and German collaborators, to say it mildly, was disgraceful. They had all the pictures of the crop of German generals, including the Kaiser, plastered all over the walls of the club. They had a great celebration there after every German victory.

The night the Lusitania was sunk was their last great celebration at the German club. The brewery supplied the club with truck-loads of booze, all free.

We old sailors decided we had stood for too much and we decided to stop it.

once and for all. So we organized ourselves into, as we termed it, small craft. We moved in three and four together.

Mr. Tobin has it all wrong when he says we were a frenzied mob of wild animals. No, we were simply small craft, but not too far away from each other.

Our first objective was the German club. We moved in quickly. Some members were singing Der Tag and some singing the Fatherland. They were all delighted how things were going and they were about all ready to take over the Government as soon as little England had lost the last battle. They were also all pretty well liquored-up.

They had developed a craze for who could grow the longest moustache, some as much as six inches long. Those moustaches came in handy. Well, to make a long story short hell broke loose.

You will admit that the sailors always put on a good show. This time it was de luxe: Some of those old sailors grabbed a moustache in each hand, knocked the heads together and threw the owners out head first.

Yes, the German club was a shambles. Their great party was all over. The warehouses and the brewery were our next job and believe me it was well done. You all know the sailors rep for drinking. Well, they did not try to live it down that night. They now had possession of the brewery.

By this time the military was called out, about 6,000 men. Victoria had never seen such armed might. The 2nd CMB on horseback and infantry. The streets were now full of troops. All I heard from some of the soldiers was "go to it, boys."

I am glad to report that there were no more wild celebrations at the German club.

It is too bad that Mr. Tobin did not get himself all the facts.

Defaulting Politicians

WHATEVER the Supreme Court does about the Little Rock case, it is most unlikely, indeed it seems impossible, that the court can resolve the fundamental issue. For while it can declare what the law is, it cannot tell the President how to induce or compel the state of Arkansas and the state of Virginia and the others to observe and enforce that law.

Lippmann

The states of the deep South do not accept that law. They have enacted their own laws, which contradict the Federal law, and it is their own laws that they are determined to observe and enforce.

There is a deadlock between the Federal government and these states, and as it cannot be broken by the Federal power, the choice before the country is, on the one hand, to acquiesce in the nullification of the 1934 decision by the Supreme Court and, on the other hand, to negotiate for the understanding of the Southern states.

Local Conditions

Such an understanding would mean that the principle is preserved but that the application is adapted to local conditions and to local sentiment.

It is, however, one of the facts of our current political life that there are no influential politicians in either party who are willing to take the lead in trying to work out such an understanding. All the politicians, insofar as they do not take refuge in a storm cellar, are boldly in favor of what the majority in their constituencies want.

And so, outside the South, there are no political leaders who are willing to admit publicly that in the deep South integration plus co-education, especially for teenagers, is impossible within the foreseeable future.

And in the South, where there is much moderate sentiment, there are no influential elected politicians who are prepared to work publicly for a negotiated program to modify, reduce, restrict and eventually to dissolve the principle of segregation.

The President, whose duty it is to lead the country towards an understanding, refuses—in his view on righteous grounds—to take the lead.

This really means that the President is leaving himself only two extreme choices. One is to acquiesce in nullification, however much the fact may be disguised by litigation. The other is to intervene with political force to compel observance of the Federal law at some particular school.

The President has left himself no means of inducing the resisting state governments to enter into a negotiated pact.

Central Problem

As things stand now, it is not unlikely that the problem of a negotiated pact, which the President and the Congress will not touch, will become the central problem of the Democratic party as the 1960 national conventions approach. For of the two parties, only the Democrats are an operating party in all sections of the country.

In the coming election this autumn, the Democrats will be segregationists in the South and integrationists in the North. But in 1960, if the party is not to split, they must find some common ground on which Northerners and Southerners can stand.

It may be—if one does a bit of wishful thinking—that necessity will be the mother of invention. The need of the Democratic party for unity may cause the Democrats to work out a sectional compromise.

This might well engage the fixing abilities of Sen. Lyndon Johnson and the broad nationalism of Gov. Stevenson. The Republicans, since they are a Northern party, have nothing to gain in the South and much to lose in the North by trying to negotiate a compromise.

Drab Prospect

All of this offers a rather drab prospect. It promises years in which the principle is proclaimed, in which nullification is the fact, nullification denounced by law suits and punctured by little forceful ventures. Given the current level of virtue in our political life, this is the best we can hope for.

There is a conceivable alternative. It is that voices will be heard in the land calling the people to rise out of their inertia and their apathy, which are so unworthy of them, to the effort and energy of which in their best days they have been capable.

Britain's National Sausage

LONDON—A matter of great importance to the British is under close study by some of the leading minds in the field and the results of their research is eagerly awaited. It concerns the national sausage, otherwise known as "the banger."

It seems that there have been complaints up and down the country about the fact when being cooked British sausages show a tendency to pop out at the ends. These complaints have been channelled to the Food Research Association at Leatherhead, that delightful town in Surrey that seems fully to have recovered now from Canadian army occupation.

The Food Research men say that "popping out at the ends is the great banger problem of the moment." And it appears that the reason it is such a problem is that many people in the country are not at all unhappy that the British sausage pops — they thoroughly enjoy chewing on those nice crispy end bits that result from popping.

This puts the Food Research Association in rather a dilemma. Hard at it trying to

Nausea

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Nausea is one of the most unpleasant symptoms there is, and it is a bad one to have because we physicians know so little about it, and cannot always relieve it. The diagnosis of the cause is often difficult. As we all know, it is a severe trial to many women during pregnancies, and in a few women it tends to come with menstruation.

It is a common symptom of some highly nervous, or somewhat psychotic, or markedly migrainous persons. As we all know, it can be produced by disgust. In some persons it is produced by eating much fat. In older persons, its sudden appearance makes me think of a possible cancer obstructing the bowel. Rarely, it comes when a person is constipated. It follows the taking of a number of drugs.

It is produced in susceptible persons by much motion, as in a ship; originally, nausea meant sea-sickness. Some persons cannot stand driving in a car on a much-curved mountain road. This tendency to car-sickness runs in families.

Alvarez

I have seen severe nausea develop in a young woman when her beau ran off with another girl. A woman can get bad nausea if she gains the impression that some food she ate was spoiled. Many people suffer from spells of nausea due to something wrong with the balancing mechanism in their ears. This is part of Meniere's disease.

What do people do for nausea? Today, there are a number of antihistaminic drugs which are especially helpful in cases of nausea. They are much used for motion sickness.

Many aging men want to know how they can tell when they need to have an operation performed on their prostate gland. Often they can tell by the fact that they have to strain hard to get their urine out. Also, they may note that on getting up in the morning they will pass several ounces of urine, and 20 minutes later, as they are shaving, they will pass an equal or a larger amount. This shows that they have what the urologist calls residual urine.

Often, he will measure this by passing a catheter (a metal or a rubber tube) into the bladder right after the man has urinated. If the doctor gets out several ounces of residual urine he will know that there is some obstruction produced by the prostate gland which surrounds the neck of the bladder.

Before Showing, Read Rules Carefully

Should you contemplate placing an exhibit in one of the local shows this fall, and it is to be your first attempt, here are a few suggestions:

Obtain a catalogue or prize list from the secretary of the organization sponsoring the show. Near the beginning, will be found one or more pages of rules. Usually these are headed "Read carefully." It may appear a superfluous admonition, but any show official will back me up when I say that show rules are read and understood by very few.

After becoming familiar with the rules, check the listings of classes and mark those which appeal to you, noting any stipulations governing the individual classes.

Then check the beginning of each section for rules governing specific classes therein, or general rules which apply to all classes in that section.

At the beginning of a section for bowls of flowers, for instance, it may state the size of bowls allowed. A common rule is that bowls shall be not less than 10 inches nor more than 12 at the widest part.

See that your bowl fits these figures, because the judges will use a measure and disqualify any exhibit which does not comply.

Watch carefully for specifications of height and width of flower arrangements.

Most specimen classes definitely state the number of blooms or vegetables to be displayed, such as, "1 vase, 3 blooms, one or more varieties, yellow," or "Beans, scarlet runners, 12 pods."

More exhibits are disqualified for the wrong number on display than for any other cause. To judge one exhibit against another, both must have the same number of items for comparison.

Be sure to put the correct names on varieties in classes "named" or sections headed "Exhibits must be named." While an incorrect name does not disqualify the exhibit, no name does.

A dahlia and an aster are different kinds of flowers, but two dahlias of different names are varieties of the same flower. The tomato and potato are different kinds of vegetables but Warba and Green Mountain are varieties of potatoes.

Every word in a show catalogue has a definite value and meaning. Watch the wording, and you will be in line for the prizes.

More Unemployment Problems Predicted

TORONTO (CP) — Federal Labor Minister Starr told labor representatives Monday to expect some measure of continuing unemployment in Canada.

The warning came at a Labor Day luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition. Mr. Starr said the largest single factor in "recent unemployment" is the expansion of Canada's labor force because of a growing population.

More and more jobs was the only solution because the problem appeared to be here to stay.

Mr. Starr said: "This means the obligation of our enterprise system is to expand the economy of this country—not in any haphazard way, but in a way that will definitely guarantee more and more jobs."

He said an unusually large number of labor contracts in major industries are up for renewal and cautioned both labor and management leaders to re-

Explorer Dies in Search For Prehistoric Sea-Lane

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — A French scientist-explorer who believed prehistoric peoples could have drifted 5,000 miles back and forth across the Pacific has paid with his life attempting to prove his theory.

Erie de Bisschop, 66, was killed Sunday night when his raft broke up on a South Seas island reef after drifting from South America.

The grey-haired explorer had escaped from several shipwrecks during a hazardous life search for the oceans for knowledge.

"But he said he would rather die at sea," his wife, Constance, said in Honolulu. "He would hate to die and be buried under six feet of soil."

CREW SURVIVES

The French navy ministry reported de Bisschop's four-man crew survived the wreck at Rakahanga in the northern Cook Islands. This was 1,200 miles beyond his original goal of Tahiti but right on the path de Bisschop had predicted he would sail.

The crew was en route to Tahiti Monday aboard a minesweeper carrying de Bisschop's body. Details of the wreck were not immediately available.

"Only God knows our destiny," said de Bisschop when he set out from Chile on Feb. 15. He and his crew sailed up the coast to Callao, Peru, then headed out to sea on April 13 aboard his balsa wood raft, the Tahiti Nui II.

Equipped with sails and measuring 20 by 30 feet, it was nafted for a similar raft that drifted most of the way from Tahiti to South America in 1957 but broke up in a storm and sank 400 miles off Chile.

The first voyage proved the Polynesians could have drifted from the South Seas to South America. This trip was aimed at proving they could pick up currents to take them back.

De Bisschop's theory is that the two ancient cultures — Polynesian and South America — could have maintained contact and perhaps conducted commerce over the ocean.

It goes one step beyond the idea first put forth and proved by Norwegian anthropologist Thor Heyerdahl, who also sailed from Callao and drifted across the Pacific aboard his raft Kon-Tiki in 1947. Heyerdahl did not attempt to test a two-way theory.

SIDELINE SLANTS BY Doug Peden

POINT GREY GOLF CLUB—No one should go to a professional golf tournament without watching big George Bayer.

To miss seeing the Seattle slugger pulverize a ball is like taking a small boy to a circus and not letting him see the elephants.

Bayer is the Babe Ruth of the fairways. When the gold trophies are talking about power, you can bet your bottom dollar they're discussing big George. He's the biggest hitter the game has ever seen. No one can match him for distance off the tee and driving competitions along the tournament circuit have become known as "Bayer Benefits."

Niblick experts have written that nobody really belts a golf ball 300 yards. And it must be admitted that some of the tales of Bayer's prodigious tee shots took a grain or two of salt to make them digestible.

Jim Gagin, travelling field secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association, was saying in the press room at Point Grey that they don't have to make up stories about how far Bayer can hit a ball.

"I saw him hit one 400 yards at Tucson," said Jim, and another time, at Las Vegas, he hit a ball that bounced against a friend of his on the first hole and dropped on the edge of a green, 420 yards from the tee.

Barn-sized George didn't seem to be boasting but merely stating facts when asked what he considered his greatest wallop. "Once," he said, "I wound up on a 589-yard hole at Sydney, Australia. The drive left me with just a wedge shot to the green. I figure that drive must have gone 500 yards."

But seeing is believing, so let's take a look at a few of Bayer's belts in this Centennial Open.

He was having trouble with his tee shots and used a No. 3 wood most of the way in Thursday's opening round. They measured his blast off the first tee at 295 yards. He took out his driver on the same hole Friday and the ball sailed 30 yards farther than the previous day's poke.

There were no tape measures around later in the day, but on the 511-yard 12th hole he boomed one down the middle and needed only a six iron to get to the green. He hadn't done quite as well on the 515-yard third. There he needed a five iron to bang his second pin high. On the 465-yard 18th, George followed his drive with an eight iron.

Long Drives Nice—So Is Eating!

"I don't hit them as far as I used to," says the ex-footballer who found out that while it is nice to have people "oh" and "ah" every time he swings a driver on the tees, a fellow has to do more than drive to eat regularly on the pro circuit.

So he's been going for accuracy instead of distance in the past 18 months and brushing up on his short game. He still manages to pound a couple of balls out of shape on every 18-hole round, but his scores have dropped and the Bayer till has been ringing a more prosperous tune. The other pros will tell you that George now has the potential to bust out with a round as great as the 61 fired Friday by Jim Ferree.

Big is hardly the word for Bayer. Vast might describe him better. He calls himself "just five-foot-17" and tucks his toolies into size 14B shoes. He's three and a half axe handles wide across the powerful, sloping shoulders.

The glass of milk that he used as a chaser for his ham-and-cheese sandwich disappeared in his enormous hands as he said, "I started playing golf at Bremerton when I was seven. But from the time I was 16 until I was 25 I didn't play at all."

The reason was that football and baseball took all his time at high school and after he enrolled at the University of Washington, his football coach wouldn't hear about golf.

Selling cars at Pasadena, Calif., George overheard two friends arguing about their golf games. "I haven't played for nine years," he said, "but I think I can beat both of you." He did.

From there it was just a matter of time until his feats started attracting attention and he shifted to the pro ranks to become the human howitzer that propels golf balls amazing distances.

With that background it wasn't surprising that a sizeable crowd was waiting when the loose-jointed giant ambled up to the first for a pre-tournament practice round.

It happens to the best of them and Bayer, for him, struck out. The mighty swing seemed almost to miss the ball. It hopped, skidded and twisted, finally dribbled to maybe 220 yards down the fairway.

"I waited an hour to see him hit one," muttered one onlooker, "and he dubbed it."

Even when I hit the ball on the nose, I'll take a 220-yarder any day.

Timbermen Even Lacrosse Series

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Timbermen evened the Inter-City Lacrosse League final Saturday at one game apiece here when they downed New Westminster Salmonbellies 12-8.

Lisle Scott, Skip McKay and Tommy McVie each picked up two goals in a winning cause with McKay getting two assists. For the losers, Cliff Sepka pumped in three goals.

Both goal tenders played a spectacular game but Stan Joseph in the Salmonbellies nets was the busier of the two, turning aside 37 shots, while Freddie Fulla of Nanaimo stopped 27.

The game as a whole was exceptionally clean with only 26 minutes in minor penalties handed out, 12 minutes of these going to Nanaimo.

Teams move to New Westminster Thursday for the third game.

Buhl's Back, So Braves Loom As Best Bet in World Series

BY UP INTERNATIONAL

Bob Buhl's sudden and amazing return to pitching stardom made it more likely than ever today that the Milwaukee Braves will be favored over the New York Yankees in this year's world series.

While the Yankees, who suffered their first "losing month" in Casey Stengel's 10-year managerial reign during August, stumbled into September still in search of starting pitchers, Buhl returned to action Monday and hurled an impressive 2-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a double-header.

Buhl, an 18-game winner two straight seasons, had been on the shelf since May 13 with a sore shoulder—but he came "all the way back" in one stunning game.

After giving up a single run in the first inning, he shut out the Cubs the rest of the way. After yielding seven hits in the first four innings, he doled out just one in the last five.

HOPEFUL MINNEAPOLIS SENDS CAL CONTRACT

WASHINGTON (CP)—Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, Saturday received a contract from Minneapolis. The contract had been drawn in hopes of luring the Senators from the American capital to Minneapolis.

Griffith received the document and is studying it. That is all he would say on the subject Saturday.

STAMPEDERS ON BEAM

Riders Rough On Lowly Leos

By The Canadian Press
Calgary Stampeders are precisely where they were a year ago, but they can look forward with a little more assurance into the last three quarters of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season. The Cowboys took their fourth league victory Monday before a Labor Day afternoon crowd of 17,750 in Calgary, defeating Winnipeg Blue Bombers 11-3.

Bombers dropped two points back in the league standings in a second-place tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders, as Riders trampled British Columbia Lions 22-14 in another Monday afternoon contest before 15,595 in Regina.

FIRST TIE GAME

The Stampeders-Bombers meeting, billed as perhaps a key game in the 16-game schedule and the first WIFU game to be televised, gave Calgary its toughest test so far and the margin of victory was their smallest in four games.

But the victory over the Winnipeg crew Monday was more convincing than the score might indicate. Their tough front line bottled up the Bomber attack and kept vaunted quarterback Kenny Ploen in check all the way.

With Knobby Wirkowski and Maury Duncan handling most of the quarterbacking, Stampeders got 17 first downs on 96 yards rushing and 163 yards passing. Stampeders completed 15 of 28 pass attempts. Bombers got 10 first downs on 140 yards rushing and 33 yards passing on two completions in 10 attempts.

COOKIE SPARKLES

In Regina, it was the power running of fullback Cookie Gilchrist, that led Riders to the victory.

The big backfielder scored one touchdown and was the main factor in Riders' running up 318 yards along the ground. Halfback Harry Lunn scored the other Rider touchdown on a 62-yard punt runback and Jack Hill converted.

Primo Villanueva and Don Vic scored touchdowns for Lions and Jerry Jones and Ted Hunt each kicked a convert.

Lions had a wide edge in passing, but they were hurt by three interceptions and by five fumbles four of which they lost to Riders. Two occurred inside the Rider 15.

The British Columbia club, without a head coach since Clem Crowe was fired last week, managed 146 yards on the ground and 251 in the air as George Herring completed 15 of 29 forwards attempted. They had 22 first downs to Saskatchewan's 15 as Riders got only 31 yards through the air on four completions in 13 attempts.

Next league action is scheduled Saturday when Edmonton is in Vancouver against the Lions and Riders are at Winnipeg. Stampeders are off until Monday when they meet the Eskimos in Edmonton.

Ferree Graduates With Casper's Aid

POINT GREY GOLF CLUB—Jim Ferree, who graduated from the unknowns of professional golf Monday by winning the British Columbia Centennial Open, says he now is a "cocky bad golfer. I probably won't win again for a year at least."

The 27-year-old native of Winston-Salem, N.C., did his personal stock-taking Monday after winning the $42,000 Centennial Open by one stroke over Billy Casper of California, a big-money winner on the gold trail who helped Ferree along in his hot-and-cold final round 71.

Ferree finished with an 18-under-par 270 over the last 72 holes. Casper had 271.

WORTH $6,400

Ferree got $6,400 for his victory. It was as much money as he had taken in the 18 months preceding the tourney.

Last year he finished in 82nd place on the trail with $1,483. He won only $123 in his last two tournaments—$20 in the St. Paul Open and $103 in the Canadian Open at Edmonton.

Casper picked up $3,600 for a tremendous last round of 66. Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Ken Venturi of San Francisco ended in a third-place tie at 273, winning $2,350 each.

Stan Leonard, who turned in Monday's hottest round of 65, finished one stroke back for $1,900 and an additional $600 as top Canadian.

HOLDS LEAD

That 61, believed to be unequalled on a par-72 course, set the stage for his triumph. He maintained his lead after Saturday's third round and, with thousands following him over the 6,505-yard layout Monday, shook off two strong challenges.

Ferree, playing the same three-some with Casper, had nothing but praise for the Apple Valley pro who has won more than $80,000 on the circuit in the last three years.

"He's probably got the best temperament of anyone on the tour. You can get very shaky out there but Billy was very nice—he boosted me along and made a great difference to my game."

Casper said he was "very happy for him—this is the first time I've ever wanted someone else to win a tournament except myself."

Laurie Carroll, recently named professional at Oak Bay, was the lone Victoria pro to collect prize money. Winner of the Times Island Open tournament earlier this year, Laurie fired steady rounds of 75, 69, 75 and 73 for a 292 total and seventh place among Canadian pros: He earned $75.

Unattached Norm Boden and Colwood's Bill Court, the other two Victoria shotmakers in the tournament, finished out of the money.

Expert Horsemanship Features Riding Competitions at Fair

A pretty Haney girl won a spectacular victory Monday against a veteran Victoria rider in one of the most hotly-contested riding competitions ever seen in the 90-year history of the Saanichton Fair.

Miss Ffrench Mullen and her half-Arab gelding Muri Imp won the "open jumping," the main and most gruelling event in the English riding competitions.

She defeated C. C. Carpenter of Victoria, one of B.C.'s top riders.

"The contest brought to a climax one of the finest horse shows in years in the Greater Victoria area."

Nearly 1,000 watched the English events for young people and experienced riders, which followed the breeding class judging in the morning.

But the main attraction for spectators was the contest between Mr. Carpenter and Miss Mullen. The two riders have been rivals at other horse shows in the province, with Mr. Carpenter always winning.

FIRST TIME

"It's the first time I've won against Mr. Carpenter and it won't be my last," said Miss Mullen.

Earlier in the day in the "fault and out," an event involving difficult obstacles, Mr. Carpenter placed first and Miss Mullen, second.

Spotlight in two events also shone brightly on young Jean Dunbar of Victoria. She rode her two horses Trader and Seven-Up to first places in the novice jumping and children's equitation (class B) events.

Honors also were won by Mrs. V. Donaldson who placed first in the Bridge Path Hack with her thoroughbred, Hindu Punch.

On Saturday, hundreds of spectators were thrilled by the western style riding events. There were 67 entries, including boys and girls all dressed in western costumes.

TRAIL HORSES

The main event, "Trail Horse," was won by Ron Trickett, an experienced Victoria rider.

The contest involves overcoming trail conditions, such as crossing over logs and bridges, mailing letters and pulling logs.

Barbara Johnston won the pole bending contest. With her horse Silver Star she ran in-out of six poles and raced to the finishing line in 24½ minutes flat.

Bob Owens finished second in 25 seconds.

Results of the two riding events are:

H-Power From Seawater For Ships of Future

Russian Scientist Predicts Project at World Atom Meet

GENEVA (AP) — A Soviet scientist Monday envisaged ships of the future powered by hydrogen-fusion machines drawing their fuel from the sea.

In principle, it is possible to design hydrogen power plants compact enough for ships, Dr. V. S. Emelyanov told the atomic-for-peace conference.

They would use hydrogen from seawater to produce steam and electricity.

Western scientists commented this seemed a "fanciful projection" when no one yet knows whether H-plants, even of huge size, can be built at all.

Dr. Emelyanov conceded it will take "immense, persistent work." He said the Soviets have built powerful experimental machines, one of which is identical with Britain's ETA.

FIRST SURPRISE

His prediction was the first surprise at the 68-nation conference which opened Monday in the assembly hall of the Palace of Nations, crowded by most of the world's nuclear scientists.

Dr. Emelyanov spoke at sessions in which six nations outlined their programs for atomic fission energy plants, using uranium or thorium, to meet an increasing demand for electrical energy.

He declared that Russia has vast reserves of coal, oil and natural gas through new discoveries.

Total actual coal reserves are estimated at 300,000,000,000 tons and possibly are more than double that, he said. Natural gas reserves are nearly 2,000,000 cubic metres and perhaps six times that much. He gave no figure on oil reserves except to say known reserves had been doubled and then redoubled again since 1946.

WORLD CODE URGED

The conference was opened by UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld with a call for international agreements on industrial atomic power. He suggested a world code on safety standards in atomic power plants as one question for the delegates to work on.

The secretary-general said the difficult problems of commercial atomic power should be made known to small nations of the world.

Francis Perrin, French high commissioner for atomic energy and president of the conference, told the 5,000 delegates from both sides of the Iron Curtain the meeting should reduce the antagonism between great nations that is "continuously made more bitter by the atomic arms race."

Messages came from the leaders of the United States, Britain, Canada, France, the Soviet Union and India.

RESEARCH DECLASSIFIED

Britain and the United States on the eve of the conference formally announced the declassification of all their research to achieve a controlled thermonuclear reaction.

The New York Times reported from Geneva that Soviet scientists had proposed privately that the United States and Russia carry on a co-operative research program in a new effort to harness thermonuclear power. The Times quoted U.S. officials as saying there was little chance the proposal would be accepted.

The report added that U.S. scientists, after talking with the Soviet delegates to the conference and looking over Russian exhibits, now believe American thermonuclear research is about a year ahead of the Soviet Union's.

Economic A-Power In Canada by 1965

GENEVA (CP) — A top Canadian nuclear scientist says that a single Canadian-designed atomic power plant may one day generate up to 1,000,000 kilowatts of electric energy, equivalent to a large hydro-electric power station.

The statement was made by Dr. W. B. Lewis, vice-president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, the Crown company which operates Canada's Chalk River, Ont., nuclear project. Dr. Lewis heads the Canadian delegation to the second United Nations conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy. The two-week meeting began here Monday.

Dr. Lewis made the statement in describing work in Canada on the development of an atomic power plant using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as the agent to heat ordinary water to produce steam to drive turbines. The turbines in turn would drive electric generators.

NO LIMIT TO SIZE

Dr. Lewis said Canadian research shows there need be no limit to the size of this type of reactor.

"It may only need confidence founded on experience to generate 1,000,000 kilowatts from one reactor," he said.

Canada at present is building an experimental atomic power plant which will produce 20,000 kilowatts of electricity. Canadian engineers also are design-

U.K. AIMING FOR SATELLITE SHOT 'SOON'

LONDON (AP) — Minister of Supply Aubrey Jones said here Britain hoped to launch a satellite in the "not too remote future."

He said the launching would not be this year but declined to say just how many years he thought would pass before the first British satellite went into orbit.

Britain's Black Knight rocket with an added booster probably would be the propellant, Jones said on his return from the Woomera rocket range in Australia.

Air Transport Board Chairman Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — W. J. Matthews, chairman of the air transport board for the last four years, died of a heart attack at his home Monday night, it was announced today. He was 58.

Mr. Matthews had suffered a heart attack at his office June 30 and had been convalescing at home. It had been expected he would return to his post,

S. Africa Elects New Premier

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Hendrick Verwoerd, 57-year-old minister of native affairs, today was elected prime minister of South Africa by a Nationalist Party caucus here. Verwoerd succeeds Johannes Strijdom, who died 10 days ago after a long illness.

Verwoerd is chief architect of the Nationalist policy of racial segregation and has declared that its ultimate aim must be the complete segregation of white and black on a territorial basis. If he has not piloted all the apartheid bills, he has been described as the driving force behind them and is regarded as the "strong man" of the Nationalist party ranks.

A psychologist by training and an expert on social services, he has for the last 10 years held South Africa's most controversial portfolio—that of native affairs, an office which deals more directly than any other with the country's troubled race relations.

Verwoerd was born in 1901 in the Orange Free State. His father was a Hollander but the boy hotly resented the seething attitude of his Rhodesian schoolmates toward what they regarded as "uncivilized Boers."

Jurists Ask Clemency for Alabama Man

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — Norman Marsh, secretary-general of the International Commission of Jurists, has sent a telegram to the governor of Alabama "urgently requesting clemency" for Jimmy Wilson, the Negro sentenced to death for robbing a white woman of $1.95.

Wilson, 55, is sentenced to die in the electric chair Friday. He was found guilty of robbing 82-year-old Mrs. Estelle Barker. She claimed that Wilson tried to rape her.

ADVERTISERS:

Just how many PEOPLE does your ADVERTISING really reach?

Study all media circulation claims closely; can they guarantee their circulations with paid receipts?

Daily newspapers can. Their circulation figures are fact not fancy, and are the total of paid deliveries. You know what you get when you advertise in daily newspapers. You know, on the basis of paid receipts, exactly how many homes your message is reaching. You know that your message has a better chance of being seen and understood than in any other media or combination of media. It means that well beforehand, without any doubt, you know how many people your message will reach. When it comes to advertising, trust in guaranteed circulations. They're your best assurance that the money you spend does the kind of selling job you want.

IGY LEADERS MEET IN MOSCOW

Scientists Pierce Iron Curtain With Geophysical Year Talks

EDITORS' NOTE—Scientists from East and West have concluded important sessions in Moscow under the International Geophysical Year program. In this article, written for The Associated Press by a leading American scientist who participated in the meetings, Dr. Walter Orr Roberts weighs their significance and casts light on the nature of Russia's scientific challenge.

Written for The Associated Press by DR. WALTER ORR ROBERTS (Director High Altitude Observatory, Boulder, Colo.)

TESTIMONIAL

The whole of the International Geophysical Year program is a monumental testimonial to the capacity of scientists in developing new tools for exploring and understanding space and its astronomical occupants. The highlights of the recent Moscow meetings of the Special Committee for the International Geophysical Year are hard to pin down, at least in my field of interest—the sun and the earth's upper atmosphere.

Public interest in scientific discovery is great in the Soviet Union. Three postage stamps were issued recently commemorating geophysical phenomena and the IGY efforts to observe them co-operatively.

Everywhere in Moscow there were intensive debates in two, three or four languages, sometimes thoroughly mixed together. An astonishingly large number of Russians have greatly improved their knowledge of English since our last meetings.

REPORT IN ENGLISH

More than 100 of them presented their formal papers in English, and did their informal talking also in our language. In the technical sphere, I was particularly impressed with two advances made by Russian scientists. One was in new and more detailed measurements of the magnetism of the surface of the sun. The other was in the development of new and powerful instruments and techniques for study of the lower layers of the sun's atmosphere, the so-called chromosphere.

Dr. A. Severny, director of the Crimean Observatory, showed us maps of the magnetism of the sun's surface surrounding large sunspots. These maps were made with great precision from a large scale portion of the sun's 800,000-mile disk. And the most interesting part was the fact that these maps showed drastic changes after the eruptions of the sun's surface.

It was clear from these maps that the sun's magnetism was drastically changed by the solar outburst — and most of us believe that the change of magnetism may hold in it the clue to the yet-unexplained process by which the flares attain their multi-million-degree heating effects in the sun's atmosphere.

From this also may come understanding of the consequent radio fadeouts produced in the earth's atmosphere.

Apostolic Delegate Visitor to Victoria

Apostolic Delegate to Canada, Most Rev. Giovanni Panico, Monday ended a 24-hour visit to Victoria during which time he visited Catholic institutions of the area and celebrated a mass for children in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

His visit here marked the start of a tour of B.C. He was due in Nelson today.

'Don't Shoot My Mom' Plea Fails to Halt Crazy Killer

BANDA, Ala. (AP) — "Please don't shoot my mom," pleaded the husky farm lad, holding his mother in his arms.

Gordon Crenshaw, Wadley, who would have eaten home-made cake for his 14th birthday a few hours later Sunday, protested his sickness-weakened family for the last time.

As he moved forward, pleading and still carrying his mother, his sister's enraged lover took aim and pistol fire illuminated the pre-dawn darkness of the country road.

Young Gordon was killed by a bullet in the heart. His mother, Mrs. Claude Crenshaw, 40, shot in the back, was paralyzed below the waist. Myrtle Crenshaw, 20-year-old sweetheart of the attacker, was shot five times in the stomach.

Both women were in critical condition in a hospital. Three other Crenshaw brothers, all older than young Gordon, could do nothing to stop the shooting spree. Two are crippled and the other is blind.

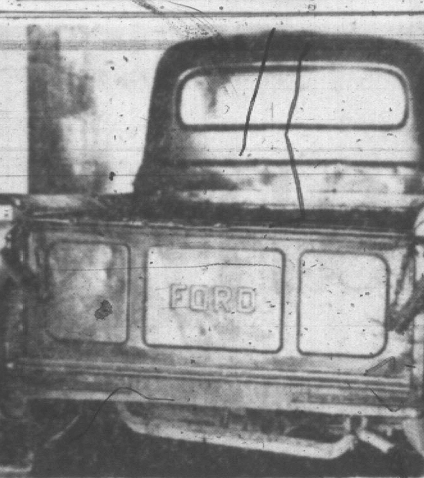

Chambers County Sheriff J. B. Abney said Madison Strickland, 42-year-old married farmer of nearby Standing Rock, surrendered about two hours after the shooting. He said Strickland was held on first-degree murder charges.

THE TRUCK that fatally injured Harry Mills, 78, July 5 at the corner of Cedar Hill and Hillside probably looked like this from the rear. The angle iron braces shown here are similar to those observed on the murder car as it sped away from the scene. It is believed to be a half or three-quarter ton pickup, green in color about 1950 vintage. Hundreds of leads have already been tracked down by City Police Traffic Department, with no results, and investigators today issued an appeal for anyone having any information to come forward.

RCMP 'Stickup' Sparks Protest by Motorists

CALGARY (CP)—Two Vancouver businessmen have filed protests to the federal and provincial governments alleging that two RCMP constables halted them at gun-point on the Cochrane Hill Sunday and frisked them for weapons.

The men, Ronald A. Kearns and Christy McDevitt, have also protested to the RCMP in Calgary and an investigation is under way. RCMP spokesmen declined comment.

Mr. McDevitt said they planned to go to Banff for dinner Sunday. They got gasoline for their station wagon at a service station on the Banff trail, and they believe the attendant called the RCMP.

"We saw the police car on the Cochrane Hill waving us down and we figured it had something to do with an escaped prisoner we heard about on the radio," said Mr. McDevitt.

"The mounties came up to us waving their guns and ordering us to get out of the car with our hands up. They made us stand with our hands against the top of the car while they frisked us, just like in the movies. Then they searched the car and really went through everything.

"We were really scared because they meant business with those guns. They made a thorough search of the car and of us, even looking inside our pockets.

"We asked them what it was all about and one of them asked if we hadn't stopped for gas at Calgary. We said we had and then we were asked if we hadn't said we had a gun. "We denied that but they wouldn't believe us, saying they preferred to believe the gas station attendant. They said we were liars.

"After failing to find anything incriminating they told us we were lucky we hadn't been shot. Then they left, with no apology. We've both worked closely with the RCMP in the past but this was so foreign to our experience we couldn't understand it. Never have we been treated so roughly by a policeman."

The men prepared protests to Justice Minister Davie Fulton and to Premier E. C. Manning attorney-general.

NEW JOBS CUT UNEMPLOYED TOTAL HERE

Greater Victoria unemployment situation continued to improve during the past week, with 67 men and 29 women finding new jobs. Total of those lacking work is now 3,510, more than 350 fewer than the figure for the end of July.

The up-trend was due to increased work in a local shipyard and a steady demand for carpenters and other building tradesmen. However, the improvement was balanced by layoffs due to the longshoremen's strike and a stall in logging and lumber work due to the prolonged forest closure.

Fisherman Drowned Off Smith Island

SEATTLE—The body of Bellingham fisherman Joseph Vitalic was pulled from the Strait of Juan de Fuca Monday by the crew of the fishing vessel Cape Race after his boat, the Karen V, sank in rough seas about two miles northeast of Smith Island, about 1:10 a.m.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 60-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to James Buch, aged 11, of Lancaster, Penn., for his question:

How Many Elements Are There?

So far, 102 different elements have been numbered and named. Some of them are so scarce that only a few ounces exist and some exist for a moment. Polonium, for example, was discovered by Marie Curie and named for her native Poland, exists only a few seconds or minutes during the radioactive decay of uranium. Oxygen, on the other hand, is so abundant that it makes up 21 per cent of the atmosphere and half the weight on the earth's crust.

Each element is composed of a number of identical atoms. And each element has a number, the number of proton particles in the nucleus of its atom. The lightest element is hydrogen, atomic number 1. The element oxygen, with eight protons in its nucleus, is 'atomic number 8. The chemical elements found in nature are numbered from 1 to 92—which is uranium. No element heavier than uranium, it seems, can exist in nature.

DISCOVERED LATELY

Ten elements heavier than uranium have been discovered since 1940, during and after the making of the atomic bomb. The last of these, nobelium, number 102, was discovered in 1957 and there is no reason why we cannot expect more to be announced. But, as of now, the list of chemical elements stands at 102, 92 of them found in nature and 10 discovered in the physics laboratory.

$40 Million Aid To Grain Growers

Subsidy for Prairie Farmers Announced in Commons by PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Saturday announced federal deficiency payments to Prairie grain growers for this year only, totalling $40,000,000.

He informed the Commons the money will be distributed by the Canadian Wheat Board on the basis of $1 an acre with a maximum of $200 per farm.

It will apply to flax acreage as well as wheat, oats and barley. The payments are to cover acreage only for the crop year that opened Aug. 1.

The prime minister said the government has reached the conclusion that deficiency payments would not be a long-term solution to the Prairie producers' problems. The subsidy for this year was only intended to provide temporary aid while more permanent policies were worked out.

Crop Insurance

He also announced that the government hopes to introduce a comprehensive system of crop insurance at the next session of Parliament.

He said such a plan is under study in consultation with the provinces and indicated it will be such that individual provinces will be free to participate in the plan or not, as they choose.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government plans to continue providing wheat for non-commercial markets under the Colombo Plan.

The government in the last crop year provided $50,000,000 for such countries as India and Pakistan to use to buy Canadian wheat and flour under the plan. He said there is still enough money in the fund to carry on this program until the next session of Parliament.

Gives Blessing

Opposition leader Pearson gave a qualified blessing to the government's new policies, including the short-term assistance payments.

But he said the grants to Prairie farmers are not based on any specific principle, such as parity prices.

"There should be a principle behind payments of this kind," Mr. Pearson said.

A careful balance had to be kept between all primary producers or any aid would be stop gap rather than permanent. Other primary producers—he was thinking particularly of fishermen—would wonder whether they should not receive similar help.

Danger of Giveaways

He warned that wheat giveaway programs might finally result in making it harder to sell the product of Prairie farms. A possible warning was that of the United States example. Despite barters, fire sales, extended credit terms and so on, the U.S. last year was unable to increase its wheat sales.

CCF House leader Hazen Argue sharply criticized the prime minister's announcement.

He said the length of the statement is in inverse ratio to its acceptability. Other things were put in the statement to "muddy" and confuse people.

He quoted leaders of western farm organizations as having already denounced as a "pittance" the new aid program, details of which had "leaked" to newspapers this week.

Some Value

"The assistance payments would be of 'some value' but they would go 'no real distance' in allowing the farmer to pay his bills and achieve a standard of living comparable with that of other Canadians."

Mr. Argue said Mr. Diefenbaker, when in opposition, had stoutly advocated parity prices. Now, in power, he had dropped the idea of parity prices.

CMHC Develops

Low-Cost House

OTTAWA (CP)—Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has designed a low-cost house especially for the small country places, the villages and towns of Canada.

Works Minister Green, has informed the Commons of this development and urged members to tell their constituents about it.

Mr. Green said the three-bedroom house can be built in rural areas for $5,000. The price would be about $8,000 if there are such basic services as electricity and running water.

The "minimum-house" qualifies for CMHC loans.

The frame house measures 24 feet four inches by 36 feet one inch.

Consumer Debt

Shows Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian consumer debt appears to be rising again after a slight decline earlier this year.

The debt owing department stores, installment finance companies and small loan companies rose to $1,385,000,000 in June from $1,379,000,000 in May, the Bank of Canada reported today.

Last March the total credit bill declined to $1,343,000,000 from $1,347,000,000 in February. Since March the debt has been rising.

Then Mr. Diefenbaker had talked of deficiency payments. Now he had dropped deficiency payments, Mr. Argue said.

U.K. Economic Outlook Bright

U.S. Report Says

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A promising long-range outlook for British industry has been forecast by the United States department of commerce.

A report issued by the department's bureau of foreign commerce cited the United Kingdom's production, employment and living standards, now at the highest levels in British history.

The report said that, assuming Britain's association in some manner with the common market, the U.K. should share in the expected increase in the level of consumption of 250,000,000 people.

Responsible British business and labor leaders, it stated, look upon the free trade area as a means of strengthening the British economy as well as offering market opportunities.

Major Companies Will Explore Alaska Oil, Gas

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three major oil firms have agreed to the joint exploration of about 1,100,000 acres of oil and gas rights in the Yukutat area along southeastern coast of Alaska, it was announced today.

The agreement, between Continental Oil Co., Colorado Oil & Gas Corp. and the Frankfort Oil Co., is subject to approval of the secretary of interior.

Continental would participate in extensive exploration work extending into 1960, the announcement said.

Colorado Oil and Frankfort, which hold the oil and gas rights, have drilled two exploratory test wells with encouraging oil and gas indications, the companies said. A third test is currently in progress.

$2 Million Plant Set at Burnaby

VANCOUVER (CP)—Kelly Douglas & Co. Ltd. announced today that it will build a $2,000,000 plant in suburban Burnaby to accommodate the company's coffee, tea and peanut butter operations. The plant will be situated on 9½ acres fronting on Lougheed Highway, said the company, which manufactures and sells food.

Mrs. H. A. Taylor, now visiting friends in Victoria, has an unusual link with Fleet Street—the heart of London's newspaper industry.

Working drawings for the proposed 100-car ferries are now well advanced. It is expected the ferries can be constructed within 10 months from the time contracts are awarded.

Accident Record Bright on Holiday

Combined efforts of motorists and extra-vigilant police forces produced a fatality-free holiday weekend for Greater Victoria and the lower Island.

Police forces had not even a serious accident to report Labor Day or the two days previous.

A year ago Sept. 1, on downtown Douglas Street, an elderly pedestrian was in collision with a car and died later, bringing the B.C. holiday fatality total to three.

Although highway traffic was heavy as expected this year, drivers were under extra surveillance by RCMP patrols consisting of regular highway officers and extra-duty members of the force from all Vancouver Island detachments.

The single major accident in this area caused an estimated $500 and no injury when a 1953 car driven by Earl Matthew Koller, 1152 Chapman, went out of control on a curve on West Saanich near Cole Bay Reserve, left the road and turned on its side at 6:45 a.m. Sunday.

Sidney RCMP said there was no injury to a passenger riding with Koller.

Two five-year-old children were involved in collisions with cars in Victoria Sunday and Monday, escaping with minor injury or shaking up.

Michael Burgess, 1205 Johnson, was examined at St. Joseph's Hospital after receiving slight nose and arm injuries when he ran in front of a car driven by Johnson by Edmund Stokes, 649 Langford, at 5:07 p.m. Sunday.

Sammy Patterson, 3161 Quadra, was involved in the same type of accident on Quadra near Tolmie with a car driven by Jan Planeta, 3905 Quadra, at 10:17 a.m. Monday.

Bennett Plans 'Great Crusade' On Debt Story

One in Seven Now Believes

Premier Bennett announced today he will launch "a great crusade" to gain understanding of the people of B.C. in provincial finances.

The premier drew attention to a recent survey conducted in Vancouver by Western Surveys Research Ltd. A poll of 600 persons showed only one in seven believed the government statement that B.C. would be solvent by 1960.

"If the accomplishments are small, people will accept it and believe it. People only disbelieve miracles, or what looks like miracles," the premier stated.

Premier Bennett said he would soon make a series of speeches outlining the Social Credit government financial policy.

Then he would ask the research firm to poll 600 people who have been acquainted with his speech.

"If they won't do it as a public service, I am willing to pay for it out of my own pocket," he added.

The reduction of B.C.'s direct debt is due to operation of some government services, such as the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the B.C. Power Commission, as "separate entities from the provincial financial structure. Debt incurred by such agencies is not shown in the statement of direct debt of the province."

Irrigation Suggested For Saanich

Farming in the Saanich Peninsula should be aided by irrigation, Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy said today.

He was commenting on the effect of B.C.'s long summer dry spell.

"Vancouver Island suffered more than many other areas because it was too dry," he stated.

But he pointed out fruit and vegetable crops were not materially affected.

Serious loss was avoided in interior crops through the use of irrigation, he said.

Fire Destroys Langford School

Blaze Lasts Nearly Five Hours

Fire late Sunday and early Monday almost totally destroyed the Southlands Private School on Selwyn Road at Langford. High winds and lack of an adequate water supply hampered firemen.

The school was vacant at the time of the blaze.

The alarm was turned in by a nearby resident, Mrs. D. G. Podmore, 2649 Selwyn, but because of the isolation of the school the fire had a firm hold by this time.

Langford volunteer fire department battled the blaze from 11:35 p.m. Sunday to 4 a.m. Monday. About 20 men were on hand.

Fire Chief Rod Bayles said winds gusting to 45, fanning the blaze.

"We could have saved the school if we had more water." Water had to be pumped from a creek more than 100 yards away and from 50 feet below the normal surface level of the ground.

"If we had a tank truck, we could have saved the building," he said.

There was no clue as to how the fire started, though it was believed to have broken out in the kitchen area of the two-storey 110-foot-long converted army hut.

The fire marshal's department from Vancouver was slated to inspect the ruins.

The building was almost totally destroyed, including equipment in classrooms, though some other fixtures were saved.

A school bus and car used to transport pupils were saved. The school was scheduled to open next week.

Headmistress and operator, Mrs. Mariam Thomas, was visiting at Shawnigan Lake at the time of the fire.

The school was for children up to age 12, and for children of the pre-school age group. It was established here about seven years ago, following operation of a similar school in Vancouver by Mrs. Thomas.

Between 30 and 40 pupils, some in residence, were due to start school there this term.

Arrangements are believed being made to carry on in temporary premises until repairs are made.

There was no official estimate of damage.

Chief Bayles said the loss was not covered by insurance.

SIX GRASS FIRES FANNED BY HEAVY WEEKEND WINDS

Grass fires thrived over Victoria's windy weekend, sending Oak Bay, Saanich and city firemen out six times. Oak Bay handled three small fires, one at the Chinese cemetery on Hartling Point Sunday and at Victoria Golf Club and off Runnymede on Monday.

Between 1 and 4:30 p.m. Monday, Saanich firemen were called to small blazes at North Dairy and Cedar Hill Crossroad, and in Lansdowne subdivision.

City firemen had a single grass fire on the holiday in Beacon Hill Park near Superior.

Tahsis IWA Men Load Lumber Ship

Federal Mediators Hold Talks In Vancouver on Longshore Strikes

Federal mediator George Currie was expected to make a statement later today on the outcome of talks over the weekend in the longshoremen's strike.

Meanwhile the executive of the B.C. Shipping Federation met in Vancouver this morning, but officials declined to disclose the outcome.

A spokesman told The Times, "We have nothing to say at the moment."

Up-coast at Tahsis, a United Kingdom ship began to lift a cargo of lumber loaded by four gangs of the International Woodworkers of America.

Tahsis Lumber Co. manager Douglas Abernethy said the IWA men had no affiliation with the striking International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, "and I don't expect any trouble."

Saturday ILWU officials were reported planning to ask the IWA men not to load the Irish Ash, but a Tahsis Lumber official in Vancouver said the company had not been approached "so far."

TEACHERS' STAFF TALKS TODAY

Wednesday: Back to Books

Some 725 teachers were back at Greater Victoria schools today for staff conferences in preparation for Wednesday's influx of some 20,000 students.

"We're ready for the big day," said a school board official.

The school return follows a busy Labor Day weekend when throngs of parents clogged highways for the summer's last out-of-town trip with their children.

New students began registering at elementary schools this afternoon. All students report back to classes Wednesday, one day later than some 3,250,000 school children who returned to their text books today in other provinces.

Kindergarten, elementary and Grade 9 pupils report to classes at 9 a.m. Wednesday. Grade 8 and Grade 7 pupils start at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. respectively.

Senior high school students will report on a staggered basis as announced last week.

An insurance program available for all school children and a new dress code for high school students will be inaugurated this year. Book rental fees for high school students will be $4.50 for junior and $5 for senior high schools, a $1 increase.

A full teaching staff and extra classrooms are ready for the record enrollment. Across the country, the picture is the same except for a severe teacher shortage in the Maritimes.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every morning about 3:00 our four-year-old and six-year-old come in quietly and get in bed with my husband and me. I try to make the children go back to their own beds but my husband calls me "unreasonable" and "cruel." He doesn't mind sleeping with children in the bed because his mamma tells me as a child he used to sleep in a bed full of cats and is used to a mob scene in bed with him. I am not used to it. The children always have sand in their hair so between waking up squashed and with sandy sheets I am unhappy. What should I do? SANDY SHEETS.

DEAR SANDY: Children belong in their own beds and if you don't want them sleeping with you forever, better put a stop to it right now. P.S.—If you bathe the children and wash their little heads every night, the sand problem would be solved. Even if they sleep alone, sandy sheets are no fun.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wife who grabs my billfold and looks through it every chance she gets. She also opens every letter that is addressed to me and seals it back together again. What do you suppose she is looking for? PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED: If you don't know, nobody does. And if she ever finds it, heaven help you!

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend has been seeing another woman for about six months and he tells me how much free love he has been getting from her. I have refused to give him any free love because I don't believe in acting like that before marriage. He tells me I am from the old school. Is there anything wrong with my beliefs or is it him? OLD SCHOOL.

DEAR OLD: Hang onto your "old school" ideas. The "free love" he has been talking about is the most expensive kind. Drop that salesman before he enrolls you in his school.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FIVE FOOT TWO: Before you see a lawyer—see a doctor!

On Etiquette

Does she know how to give it?

From Mexico I sent a friend a lovely silver necklace. Since my return I have seen her wearing it several times, yet she has never acknowledged it. Granting that her thank-you note, if any, may have gone astray, shouldn't she mention my gift when we meet?

Louise Davis answers:

A beautiful silver necklace doesn't come a dime a dozen even in Mexico, and I should think that anyone receiving one as a gift would naturally comment on it to you many times. As all humans err, you unwittingly could have been the culprit! You may be positive that you enclosed a card with the gift, yet it is possible that you didn't, so give your friend the benefit of the doubt. If you did enclose a card, it might have inadvertently gone unseen with the wrappings to the rubbish collector. Something tells me that name of the giver is unknown. The next time you see this friend, even if she isn't wearing the necklace, you might mention to her that the silver necklace you got her in Mexico was particularly becoming and that you hope she likes it as much as you did. She might be grateful for such a remark, for it might solve a riddle that has been troubling her.

When you don't know the name:

I have necessarily delayed in sending a graduation gift to the son of a business colleague of my husband. Since the boy and his family live in another city, there is no way for us to find out the boy's first name. Can you offer a suggestion?

Young Canadian At Ballet School

EDMONTON (CP)—Susan Davies at 12 years of age is believed the youngest Canadian ever accepted by the Royal Ballet School in Surrey, England.

She began ballet lessons under Edythe Heavener of Edmonton when she was three. At nine, she had passed grade five ballet.

Touring examiners from the Royal Academy suggested she go to Vancouver last December for the Royal Ballet audition.

"I auditioned for the ballet mistress just before the last performance of the company," recalled Susan, in an interview prior to leaving for England.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most women now have accepted the fact that exercise is a beautifier of the figure. Even if the weight is correct, the silhouette may miss the lovely proportions of the exercise-influenced figure. Grace, lithe-ness and tone also are happy by-products of regular exercise.

Many women who have good figures have old faces. General exercise helps the face some since it stirs up circulation all over the body, but it is illogical to exercise the muscles of your body and forget those of your face.

Granted we use these facial muscles in talking, eating and in all expressions betraying emotions. However, no matter how much you laugh or eat or how enthusiastic you may be, such muscular activity does not take the place of planned facial exercise. If you do not believe this, you should try a few of these special exercises.

I have had many letters from readers telling me that after using the facial exercises for a few months friends have asked them what they have been doing in order to look so much younger. Before giving you a couple of facial exercises I want to call your attention to two things.

In the first place never take these exercises without first applying lubricating cream to your face and neck. This will make the skin pliable. Also start in slowly, doing each exercise only about five times daily for a week or so. You should also do each exercise very slowly.

1. Purse your lips, pulling the entire face toward the centre. Do this slowly and hold for a few moments. Now slowly unpurse lips and pull the corners of the mouth as far toward the ears as possible. Continue pursing and unpursing slowly.

2. Pull the left corner of the mouth as far toward your left ear as you can. Slowly return mouth to place. Pull the right corner of the mouth up as far toward the right ear as possible. Return to place. Continue alternating slowly.

3. Fill the cheeks with air and submerge the face under water. While the face is under water tap it gently with the fingertips.

Guild of 2809 Burdick Avenue. The marriage will take place September 27 at 8 p.m. in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, with Rev. Hywel J. Jones officiating. Eva Webb Wears Blush Pink Gown At Wedding in St. John's Church

A blush pink nylon and organza gown over heavy pink taffeta was worn by lovely dark-haired bride Miss Eva Webb, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Webb of Hillside Avenue at her marriage Saturday evening to Richard Sydney Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Townsend of Brentwood. The floor-length model dress was fashioned with a bateau neckline and lily-point sleeves. The tiny waist was accentuated with a pleated cummerbund and the skirt was very full, sweeping to a wide train. Her fingertip veil was held with a pearl and sequin headress. Pink roses mounted on a small white Bible were carried by the bride, with white heather and stephanotis on ribbon streamers. Miss Webb was given in marriage by her father for the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church, at which Canon George Biddle officiated. White gladioli and pink chrysanthemums banked the chancel in bright profusion, and Hugh Wynne, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" for the service. White embossed nylon organza over deep rose taffeta dresses were worn by bridal attendants, Miss May Wong, Miss Gail Webb and Miss Virginia Townsend. They had matching headpieces and carried crescents of white gladioli. Little flower girl Sandra Huene wore an identical frock and carried gladioli. A grey blue silk ensemble with silver trim was worn by the bride's mother. Her accessories were in rose tones and she had a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was in beige lace over soft pink taffeta. Accessories were in tone and she had a corsage of roses. William Greenhalgh was best man and ushers were Michael Townsend and Douglas Webb. A cake encircled with blush pink tulle entwined with roses centred the bridal table at the reception in Olde England Inn, at which T. S. Spilsbury proposed the toast. For her honeymoon up-Island, the new Mrs. Townsend chose a blue and yellow floral silk chemise style outfit. She topped it with a powder blue duster and matching hat. Her accessories were in tan shade and she had a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. The couple plan to make their home at 1707 Richmond Road.

White Blooms in Church At Helga Penn's Wedding

Baskets of white gladioli banked the chancel and white roses were on the altar of St. Alban's Anglican Church for the wedding Saturday evening of Helga Carola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Penn, Richardson Street, and Hetti Olef Past, son of Capt. Evald Past and Mrs. Past, Beach Drive. Rev. M. Heinam conducted the ceremony. John Dunbar, soloist, sang "Ave Maria" for the lovely service. The tall, fair-haired bride was a picture as she entered the church on her father's arm. Her floor-length gown of peau de soie was fashioned with a deep V neckline and lily-point sleeves. The wide, graceful skirt featured insets of Brussels lace and a full train of matching lace extended from the waistline at the back. Her jewelry was a set of pearls, gift of the groom. A dainty veil in fingertip length was held in place with a cap of Brussels lace, embroidered with seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white roses. Mrs. Alan La Croix as matron of honor wore a sky blue, peau de soie gown in ballerina length. The strapless bodice was cut of French illusion net into tiers. It was topped with a tiny jacket. Bridesmaids Misses Greta Walters and Sylvia Davison wore identical gowns in yellow tones. Frocks in blue shade were worn by flowergirls Helle and Serlie Vanajan. All attendants carried bouquets of marguerites. Felix Lansoo was best man and ushers were Tolvo Lanamae and Harald Hoche. A reception was held in the Georgian Lounge, Empress Hotel, following the wedding. Assisting the newlyweds with receiving guests were the bride's mother, wearing a dark

TV ROUND-UP

Compiled by MICHAEL ROSE
Substituting for TV Editor Phil Lee

Ricardo Montalban in 'Night in Havana,' Channel 4 at 9

FINANCE MINISTER DONALD FLEMING will address the nation on a coast-to-coast hook-up tonight to emphasize the final phase of the federal bond conversion campaign.

The broadcast is apparently being made with the object of getting at families who have just returned from their summer vacations.

The special program will be seen over Channels 6 and 2 at 9 p.m. and dis-places the Chevy Show by 15 minutes.

"Men in Battle" with
Brig-General Sir Brian
Horrocks has been moved to Wednesday night at 10.30.

STEADY FOLLOW-
ERS of "Navy Log"

Thursday evenings were amply rewarded for their faithfulness last week
when the program
"Mama Germaine" was presented.

Françoise Rosay, a "Friends—Can you afford an French actress who has air-conditioner?"
long been a favorite on films and the stage lifted a thin plot and poor supporting cast right into a solid half hour of delightful entertainment.

Alternating grandmotherly charm with irascible rages of monumental proportions she bulldozed her way through the plot.

'ARTISTIC, POLITICAL OVERTONES'

Statues Pose Problem for PM; Should He Add King, Bennett?

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker is pondering a question that carries artistic and political overtones: Whether to expand the cluster of Parliament Hill statues to honor two former prime ministers.

The two are Mackenzie King, renowned Liberal leader who set a Commonwealth record with more than 21 years as Canada's prime minister, and Viscount R. B. Bennett, Conservative prime minister in 1930-35.

IMMIGRANTS LONELY

Australians Forgot To Bring in Girls
By OSCAR A. GUTH
SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Since the war Australia has taken in more than a million migrants. Now it's trying to correct a little slip in the proceedings—a lack of girls.

Australia has received about 160,000 more men than women. In the key group aged 20-29, officially described as the "marriage group," there are some 50,000 lonely male hearts. Most of them are Italian and Greek hearts.

The government therefore is trying to step up its female migrant intake a little, especially from Greece and Italy. It does not find much difficulty in finding suitable girls willing to migrate.

But there almost never are arrests in such cases. "Populate or perish," is the advice Australia has been given by one of its statesmen.

The annual value of the forest industries to the people of British Columbia is well over half a billion dollars.

DOCKSIDE RIOT

The big liners that bring up to 10,000 migrants each month from Britain and Europe carry scores of girls, and a few weeks ago police reinforcements had to be called to the Sydney wharf where the liner Aurelia docked from Greece with some 200 brides-to-be.

Twenty-seven were proxy wives and the rest were to be married in Sydney.

But not only their future husbands were at the wharf to welcome them. Each of the eager Greeks had brought

Native Skin Diver Goes 130 Feet Deep

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The crew of a New Zealand warship has returned wide-eyed at the feats of a native skin diver at isolated Penrhyn Island, in the tropical Cook group of the South Pacific.

The New Zealand frigate Pukaki called there after assisting in observations for the British H-bomb test at Christmas Island.

Japan Wants '64 Olympics

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese sports official was quoted Monday as saying Tokyo's chances of getting the 1964 Olympics are very promising.

Kinichi Asano, director of the Japan Amateur Athletic Association attributed this to Japan's excellent staging of the third Asian games in Tokyo. Asano now is touring Europe.

He said Brazilian and African representatives had promised their country's support for Tokyo's bid at the next International Olympic Committee meeting next May at Munich, West Germany.

Dogs, Boys Reap Golf Ball Harvest

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Severe import cuts have brought an acute shortage of golf balls in New Zealand, resulting in herds of small boys searching for them.

Some clubs have given licences to ball hunters, and trained dogs are returning a good harvest.

Let's talk REAL ESTATE

By Jack Mears

When I arrived here, three years ago, one of the first drives I was taken on was around the Oak Bay waterfront, and through the Uplands. As far as I remember, we started up on King George Terrace and every one must admit the view of the Olympics on one side, and of the well-kept gardens and homes on the other, is superb.

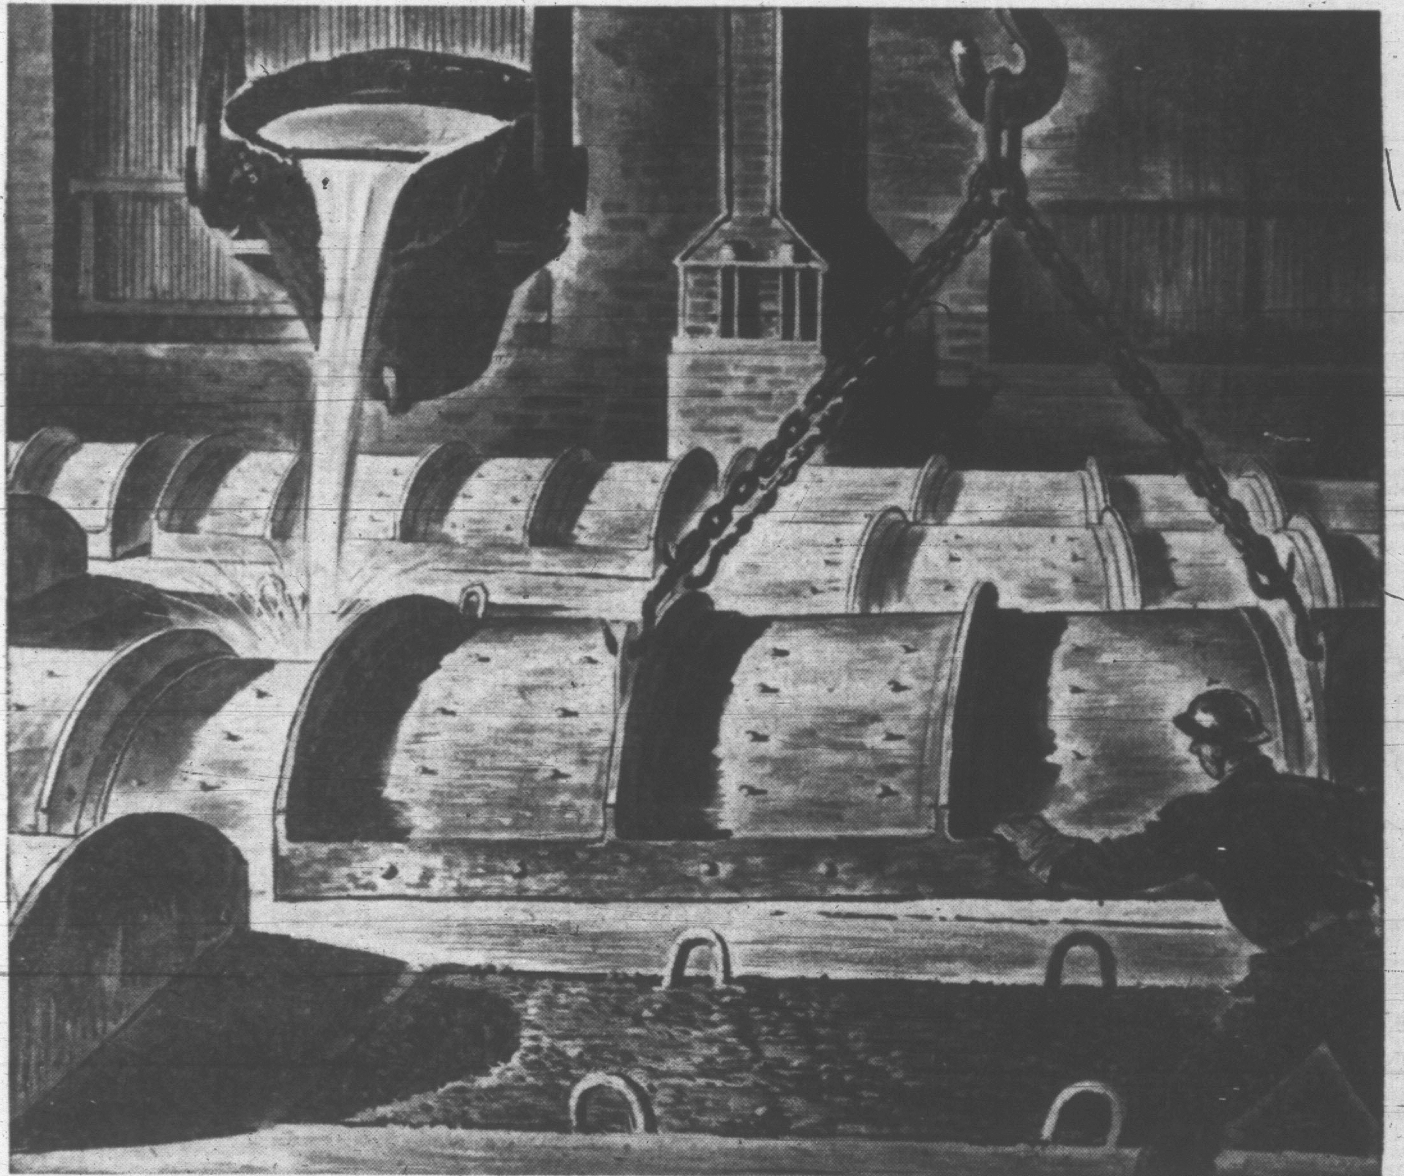

We then drove on down Beach Drive through the Victoria Golf course, past the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and the Oak Bay Boat House. Along that particularly charming part of Beach Drive by the Glenora School to the Uplands Gate, I had been staying with relatives in North Hollywood, and I was absolutely amazed at what Victoria had to offer. Spacious lawns, trees, and homes in settings which can only be described in superlatives. We went out to Cadboro Bay, Two Mile Point and returned by Cadboro Bay Road past the Uplands Golf Course and along Lansdowne to Mt. Tolmie. I think everyone must admit that here is some exceptionally beautiful real estate.

"This week, we have listed a very pretty 3-bedroom Beach Drive home with high-eaved roof and leaded windows, it is being advertised in our normal advertisement in the classified columns and is really worthwhile seeing. Waterfront, water view and proximity to water is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain. After all it is one of our main attractions. Shortages nearly always mean increased prices, and I feel confident that today's prices will seem like gifts in a very few years time. We have collected quite a number of these prime properties, ranging from 2 to 5 bedrooms, and in prices from $13,000 to $40,000. Each one unique in its own setting. Locations range from Oak Bay, Cadboro Bay, Gordon Head to Cordova Bay. There are also a very few prime lots still available. If you are interested just give us a call.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

In Inco's new matte separation process, the molten matte comes from huge Bessemer converters to the casting and cooling building in 14-ton ladles. There, it is poured into brick-lined cooling moulds and covered with insulated steel hoods. During the cooling period, while the matte solidifies, nature works her magic. At the end of the controlled cooling cycle, the nickel and copper sulphides have each formed into separate crystals.

Inco Research solves the "riddle of the rock"

New method developed for separating nickel and copper in Sudbury ores

The "riddle of the rock"—how to separate nickel and copper when they are both present in the same ore—had plagued mankind for centuries. It confounded early attempts to produce copper from the ores mined near Sudbury, Ontario.

The Orford process of separating nickel and copper helped put the Canadian nickel industry on its feet and served it well for many years.

Recently Inco developed a new and better method of separating the nickel and copper present in the Sudbury ores. After careful study, involving hundreds of laboratory experiments and a long period of pilot plant operation, Inco research found a way to put nature to work solving the "riddle of the rock".

Inco metallurgists discovered how to cool molten matte under carefully controlled conditions so that the copper and nickel sulphides form into independent crystals which can be separated by conventional means.

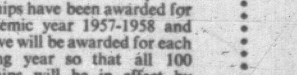

The new matte separation process is another example of the way Inco research is finding better ways to find, mine, smelt and refine Canada's great store of mineral wealth.

Faubus Ready to Fight Integration by Force

LITTLEROCK, Ark. (AP)—Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas said today he has information that U.S. marshals are being mustered for possible use in enforcing school integration here. He said he would resist any federal use of force.

"Even now in Little Rock there are U.S. marshals and other federal officers ready to take over at Central High School if integration is ordered again," Faubus said.

The governor declared he would resist "any federal force interfering with any public

TRILLIUM SITS FOR PORTRAIT

The painting will join pictures of the dogwood and rhododendrons, which are also protected plants.

The trillium was declared a protected plant at the last session of the legislature.

Bulb-Snatcher Burglar Enters School

A bulb-snatching burglar made off with about three dozen electric light bulbs after breaking into James Bay School at McDonald Park, police were told today.

A rear window was discovered smashed and entry made apparently by reaching through the hole to unlock a door.

All teacher's desks were opened and wooden match sticks were found in each room, but there was no report of anything else stolen.

A janitor said all was in order when he left for holidays Aug. 5.

DOOR FORCED

On Labor Day $39 was reported stolen from a till at Fairways Grocery, 2661 Douglas, after a rear door padlock was forced.

John Wain, an American visitor staying at 113 Gorge East, reported Saturday afternoon the theft from his room of a camera valued at $80. About two hours earlier M. G. Briggs, 1815 Ruby, told police someone took two children's purses containing $1.60; an electric clock, fishing rod and reel and tackle box containing $40 worth of gear from his car as it was parked 15 minutes at Bastion and Langley.

6-Month Plan Instituted For Permits

Victoria fire department will introduce a new system of issuing burning permits this fall, Fire Chief James Bayliss announced today.

Beginning Oct. 1, permits will be issued for a six-month period to city residents who wish to burn rubbish and garden refuse.

These permits are issued on a 10-day basis at present.

The new system will be introduced to relieve congestion on fire department telephone lines and for the convenience of residents, the chief said.

The six-month permits will not be issued over the phone. They must be obtained from any firehall or the chief's office in person.

The new policy will not affect industrial, brush or housewrecking burning permits, which must be renewed each day.

Jail Term for Police Assault

Passing sentence, Magistrate A. C. Sutton said "a prisoner is not entitled to fight the police."

SMITH'S PLAN

Commonwealth University Swaps Urged

MONTREAL (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith, Monday night, suggested a fellowship plan for exchange of university staff and students among Commonwealth countries.

Expressing conviction that intellectual links are in large part the basis of Commonwealth solidarity, Mr. Smith said the free flow of ideas should be facilitated by an exchange system, particularly at graduate level.

"Such a program should be 'multilateral' rather than of a one-way character, said the former president of the University of Toronto. Selection of staff and students should be made by universities rather than governments.

Mr. Smith was addressing the eighth quinquennial congress of the Association of Universities of the British Commonwealth.

Fake Doctor Linked to 3 Dead Patients

CHICAGO (AP)—A 17-year-old girl Monday linked a former patient to a third death during his month's imposture as a physician.

Peter J. Frank, 32, had been charged with practicing medicine without a licence and possession of narcotics.

The girl, whose name was withheld because she is a juvenile, told police she posed as Frank's nurse on at least six calls he made Aug. 10. One of Frank's patients that day was Edward Frieza, 48, who, the girl-related, complained of severe chest pains.

Frank commented, the girl said, he did not believe Frieza was ill but decided to administer a shot of adrenalin anyhow. He couldn't find that heart stimulant in his medical kit so gave Frieza what the girl said she believed was a polio shot.

About an hour later, according to the girl, Frank received another call to the Frieza home. Frieza was dead when Frank and the girl arrived.

The two deaths to which Frank was linked earlier were those of Miss Lucy Murphy, 70, and Mrs. Margaret Lichtenberger, 82. The coroner's office has obtained a court order for the exhumation today of Miss Murphy's body and said it would seek similar orders for the bodies of Mrs. Lichtenberger and Frieza to find out what caused the deaths.

Nanaimo Mill Resumes Work; Jobs for 83

NANAIMO — Eureka Sawmills, which closed down eight months ago because of the lumber market situation, will reopen in September.

A. Gordon McGeechie, manager for the Anglo-Canadian firm which owns the mill, stated Saturday that millwrights and electricians will go to work Tuesday to prepare the mill for opening Sept. 15 or at the latest Sept. 22.

First shift will employ 83 men who will be hired through the National Employment Office, with seniority counting. It is hoped, later this year, to start a second or night shift at the mill which would bring the payroll up to about 165 men.

Mr. McGeechie said this would depend upon assurance from the city that the city's anti-noise by-law will be changed. Opening of the night shift will also depend upon settlement of the longshoremen's strike.

Eureka is an all-electric mill adjacent to Nanaimo's assembly dock.

$200,000 Fire Remains Mystery

NANAIMO — A $200,000 fire Friday at the senior high school here is still a mystery.

Spokesman for the provincial fire marshal's office, David A. Cunningham, said the burning was so thorough it was not possible to determine how it originated.

Arson possibility was discounted by Nanaimo Deputy Chief Albert Dunn who said there was no evidence to support the theory.

RIGGED QUIZ CHARGES CALLED BLACKMAIL PLOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The producers of the television quiz show Twenty-One Monday night charged that former contestant Herbert Stempel concocted his accusations that the show was rigged as part of a blackmail scheme to extort a large sum of money from them.

Jack Barry and Dan Enright, producers of the show, said they have turned over evidence to District Attorney Frank Hogan in which "Stempel confessed that these same charges were baseless and untrue, and were part of a blackmail scheme Stempel had concocted in order to extort a large sum of money from the firm of Barry and Enright."

The New York Times quoted Stempel as saying: "Their statement is entirely false and malicious. I never confessed to anything except that '21' was fixed."

'NEVER RETURN'

Townsend Leaves England for Good

PARIS (CP)—Peter Townsend, washed into world travel by romance that didn't work out, says he isn't going home again.

The former RAF group captain, who leaves today for Yugoslavia, said Monday night that he has no intention of returning to England.

Townsend also denied that a planned film on his new trip around the world will deal in any way with his private life—presumably his romance with Princess Margaret which ended in 1955 when she decided against marrying him.

Townsend read his statement to five news agency reporters in a Paris hotel while outside 60 reporters and photographers hammered on the door and rang the bell.

Townsend and Victor Stollhoff, American film producer, returned unexpectedly to Paris Saturday from Yugoslavia.

"ABSOLUTE RUBBISH"

Townsend commented "absolute rubbish" when asked about British newspaper reports that he had returned because of a message from royal circles disapproving of his capitalizing on the name of Princess Margaret.

Frowning slightly from time to time, but apparently at ease, Townsend read his statement, which was handwritten on blue notepaper.

He said, "It is time to deny categorically that I have ever made public or caused to be made public revelations concerning my private affairs or those of any other person."

"The suggestion that the film I am making will have any connection with my private affairs is as base as it is untrue."

When he referred to "my private affairs," Townsend turned to the reporters and said, "You understand what I mean?"

SOLID REFUSAL

He said that "over the past five years I have felt grateful to the newspaper editors and reporters who have come to know and respect the fact that I refuse and shall continue to refuse to discuss my own, or anyone else's private affairs no matter what enticement may be put in my way, and all insinuation to the contrary may be discounted."

"My future plans, whether they involve writing or film making, arise entirely out of the journey I recently made by car around the world."

"Finally, and I trust this will put an end to further speculation, I have no intention of returning to my country, England."

He said "many countries impressed me" and that he thought Africa was a "man's continent."

Stollhoff said the film "never" proposed to have anything to do with Princess Margaret.

"It has no connection at all with the princess," he said. "What interests me is this individual as a man."

Almost all the world's supply of vanadium, used in making airplanes, is exported from Callao, Peru.

POLITICS BLAMED

U.K. Govt. 'Afraid' to Act On Vice Report

MONTREAL (CP)—Sir John Wolfenden, chief author of Britain's controversial report on prostitution and homosexuality, said here Monday the British government fears to implement any of the report's recommendations for political reasons.

His committee, after an 18-month inquiry and a further 18 months of preparation, made 30 recommendations. Of these, he said, attention has been centred on two.

The first was that homosexual behaviour between consenting adult parties in private no longer be considered a criminal offence; second, that fines for prostitution be increased to £25 from £2.

CLAIMS PUBLIC SUPPORT
He said the government, with 18 months of its term left, "does not want to alienate some of its supporters. Secretly most people agree with what we found."

"I'm convinced that if a secret ballot were held, in the public as well as the House of Commons, the majority—small, perhaps, but a majority nevertheless—would support our recommendations."

Sir John, vice-chancellor of the University of Reading, England, is here to attend the eighth quinquennial congress of Commonwealth universities.

TOO EMOTIONAL
Sir John said the main difficulty has been that people are "too emotional" about the two subjects.

"They won't face them objectively, rationally. They start talking about things like the decadence of nations."

"We weren't discussing sin, but crime. That's what too many people forget. We weren't preparing a book on sociology or moral theology. We were concerned with law and practice. We wanted to find a way to clean up the streets of London."

ONTARIO SPLIT ON SWEEPSTAKES

OTTAWA (CP)—The issue of hospital sweepstakes for Ontario was expected to split the annual meeting here today of the Ontario Municipal Association.

The resolutions committee on a split vote has turned down a proposal that the provincial government be asked to investigate and assist in establishment of a national lottery or sweepstake, profits of which would go to Ontario hospitals.

Such lotteries at present are illegal under the Criminal Code. Millions of dollars are raised annually for hospitals in England by sweeps on sporting events.

Big Sea Battle Costly to Reds

TAIPEI (CP)—A Chinese Communist invasion fleet is assembling for an imminent attack on Nationalist-held offshore islands, Formosa officials said today.

The Nationalist military high command was said to believe the four-day lull in Communist activity in the tense Formosa Strait heralded an early move against the tiny Tan Islands guarding the Quemoy group or against Matsu, 150 miles north of Quemoy.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists claimed their warships early today sank 11 Communist torpedo boats that were trying to break up a convoy to embattled Quemoy Island.

It was the biggest naval action reported in the 11 days since the Communists stepped up their attack on the Nationalist-held offshore islands.

Earlier, the Nationalists announced their artillery on Quemoy in firing through the day night, sank three Communist gunboats and eight motorized junks in a flotilla near Amoy, the Communist island port blockaded by the Nationalist islands.

SHIP TURNS BACK
Despite the reported naval success, the torpedo boat attack forced the Nationalist troop carrier to return to the Pescadore Islands without unloading 370 troops destined for Quemoy. Only 30 of the reinforcements made it ashore.

While the naval engagement raged, Red shore batteries pounded Quemoy with renewed fury. The Communists fired 857 shells in 1½ hours and also dumped a 101-shell barrage on tiny Tatan Islet 2½ miles south of Amoy.

This combined artillery and sea attack erupted after the quietest day in the Formosa Strait since the Communists began their heavy attack Aug. 23. The Communist shore guns fired only 457 shells Monday.

The Nationalist defence ministry said the Communists had fired about 125,000 shells at the islands in the first 10 days. To evacuate casualties and keep the islands' troop and supply strength up in the face of an invasion threat, the Nationalists have been running night convoys to Quemoy from the Pescadore Islands, 30 miles west of Formosa.

Meanwhile, the first elements of about 1,000 U.S. Marines arrived in Formosa for previously scheduled amphibious manoeuvres with the Nationalists beginning Friday or Saturday. The 3rd Marine Division from Okinawa and some units of Air Group 11 from Japan will take part.

LONDON (AP)—Britain, which recognizes Communist China, Monday accused the Peking regime of waging psychological warfare over Quemoy, Matsu and other offshore islands in Formosa Strait.

Frigate Repels Iceland Boarders

LONDON (Reuters)—A British warship rescued a trawler that had been arrested today by Icelandic coast-guardsmen for infringing on Iceland's new 12-mile territorial waters limit.

The crew of the frigate HMS Eastbourne removed a boarding party that had taken control of the trawler Northern Foam, skippered by J. Crockett, a 39-year-old Newfoundland.

The Royal Navy said no force was used in negotiating the removal of the coast guard boarding party.

A Reuters correspondent on HMS Eastbourne said the Northern Foam had been seized by two Icelandic gunboats and taken over by a boarding party.

The Eastbourne intercepted and took charge of the trawler as the gunboats were escorting her to port.

USED 14 MEN
Fourteen Royal Navy officers and ratings regained control of the trawler without resistance.

One of the gunboats, the Thor, refused to take back its boarding party. The men were brought aboard the warship, the correspondent radioed. Commodore Barry Anderson said he will return them to Iceland as soon as possible.

A statement issued in Reykjavik by Iceland's coast guard said its boarding party was met by trawlermen armed with cutlasses.

Capt. Crockett came to Britain during the war from the fishing village of Bay Bulls near St. John's. His home port now is Grimsby. He has a wife and three children.

PROTESTS TO LONDON

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Gudmundur Gudmundsson said Monday Iceland had protested to London the "use of force by the British navy" to prevent an Icelandic gunboat from arresting a British trawler.

Gudmundsson said in a broadcast he has ordered Iceland's ambassador in Paris to report the incident to NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak.

Private talks arranged by Spaak broke down in Paris.

Race Riot Erupts In London Area

LONDON (AP)—Race rioters rampaged through London's Notting Hill district Monday night for the third successive night. It was early morning before police with big Alsatian dogs cleared the streets of the mob of more than 2,000 whites, most of them teenagers.

The rioters smashed windows of Negro homes. The embattled residents retaliated by hurling bottles from their roofs. One home-made gasoline bomb also was thrown down but the fire was put out quickly.

One white man was stabbed in the shoulder. Scores of other persons had minor injuries.

Police arrested 34 persons, bringing to 57 the total arrested in London since racial disturbances broke out again Saturday night.

In the neighborhood Paddington district, gangs of white youths wrecked a cafe frequented by Negroes.

Racial friction between native-born white and immigrants from the West Indies and other areas of the Commonwealth flamed into violence in the industrial city of Nottingham slightly more than a week ago, and a clash there was quickly repeated in Notting Hill.

The battling was resumed in Notting Hill Saturday night when, after the pubs closed, some 200 whites and non-whites clashed with knives and broken bottles. More than 500 whites roamed the district Monday night, attacking Negro residents and throwing rocks and bottles at their windows.

Nottingham also had weekend race violence. There, a mob of 1,000 whites moved on the city's Negro quarter Sunday night but police patrols drove them off. Five of the rioters were sentenced Monday.

Canada Seeks New Conference On Sea Rights

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said today Canada would "take the initiative if necessary" for the calling of another law of the sea conference to settle the British-Icelandic and other disputes over the 12-mile fishing limit.

Canada's proposal for exclusive rights out to 12 miles was successfully backed by the larger nations at the April law of the sea conference at Geneva. Canada at that time had the support of many of the smaller nations.

The prime minister called the dispute between Iceland and Britain a "world-wide problem."

He noted that the dispute would probably be brought before the United Nations general assembly later this month. The law of the sea conference is sponsored by the U.N.

OSLO (AP)—The Norwegian Fishermen's Association demanded Monday that Norway announce its intention to establish a 12-mile fishing limit from her shores. Norway now has a four-mile limit.

THE SACK . . . . . . FARM STYLE

Record 14,000 Throng to Fair

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A record crowd of 14,000 from all parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland turned out for the colorful 90th annual fair of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society over the Labor Day weekend.

It was the largest crowd in the history of the oldest fair in western Canada, topping last year's attendance by 3,000.

And in the opinion of judges and B.C. government agricultural officials, it was one of the best fairs in its class held so far in the province.

Unlike other exhibitions, the Saanichton Fair, founded in 1868, retained some of its old-time atmosphere.

It featured a record number of entries—a total of 2,715.

Some idea of the extent of these entries is shown in these figures: sheep 140, swine 19, goats 89, poultry 83, geese 36, pigeons eight, bantams 36, budgies 150, cattle 320, horses 144, rabbits 160, vegetables 330, fruits 210, grains and grasses 34, jams 196.

The highland events alone had 40 entries, and household arts, ladies' work and handicrafts over 300 entries.

Every event ranging from goat to cattle judging competitions was well attended.

Among the more popular shows were the budgie and rabbit exhibits.

The Angus steers of Woodwyn Farm, Saanichton, which included a grand champion weighing well over a ton, also attracted a good deal of attention.

In the Agricultural Hall the horticultural exhibits and domestic arts were on display. The hall was crowded to capacity throughout the two-day fair.

Winners included Mrs. J. C. Erickson of Deep Cove, who was awarded the Mitchell-Turgoose Cup for obtaining the highest number of points in the various classes. It is the fifth time she has won.

Sharing the grandstand with Mr. Steacy was 80-year-old George T. Michell, a veteran member of the fair committee. Calf competitions and Eng-

Rain Eases Hazard In Island Woods

Vancouver Island loggers and hunters were given free rein in the woods today with lifting of bans imposed Aug. 20 due to high forest fire hazard.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston at noon announced lifting of the general forest closure which has halted industry and recreation in the woodlands of Vancouver fire district for the past two weeks.

Recreation and Conservation Minister E. C. Westwood simultaneously announced lifting of restrictions which had already cut into the grouse season and threatened to cancel portions of the deer hunting season.

Some portions of the B.C. interior are still restricted to hunters.

In those portions of the province newly-reopened, there is possibility of further closure if the fire hazard again becomes severe.

RAIN FORECAST
But Victoria weatherman William Mackie at noon could see no early resumption of the dry weather which has been current on the west coast this summer. The unsettled pattern will continue. Victoria can expect rain again Wednesday night.

The announcement on game restrictions specifies bans are lifted today in game management areas one, two and three—Vancouver Island and the remainder of the mainland coast.

The hunting ban in areas four and five, the Queen Charlottes and Kitimat areas—was lifted previously.

The ban remains in effect in areas six, seven, eight, nine, 13 and 14. This is a portion of the province extending south from Quesset to the boundary, bounded on the east by Grand Forks and the west by Hope, roughly including the southern Cariboo.

Reinstatement of the normal hunting regulations on the coast means grouse hunting may begin immediately.

Normally the grouse season in this area would have started last Saturday. Only one weekend has so far been lost to the bird hunters.

Pheasant, duck and ruffed grouse seasons do not normally commence until Oct. 11.

DEER SEASON
The season for deer will open Sept. 13 on Vancouver Island, unless a further closure is ordered.

The minister said the closure on the interior areas would be lifted "... at the earliest possible moment."

Lifting of the general forest closure by Mr. Williston was accompanied by the warning: "A change back to hot, dry weather could mean a re-imposition of the closure at any time."

All campfire permits in Vancouver district are automatically reinstated.

country and the total was well below last year's toll of 83 for the three-day holiday.

A Canadian Press survey showed 43 killed in traffic. The Canadian Highway Safety Conference had predicted 56 would die on the roads compared with the 52 last year.

Thirteen persons were drowned and eight died in various other mishaps. The survey covered the 78 hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

Although the chill, wet weather helped keep the count down in most parts of the country, a fierce storm Sunday in southern Ontario contributed to at least six deaths.

Two men and a woman were drowned in Kingston Harbor when their 23-foot sailing boat was suddenly swamped by
